I staff. Some of these opportunities tend to be neglected because their benefits are not as immediately obvious as the advantages of higher education. The provision of a suitable educational environment is crucial for the development of students. The significance of these opportunities cannot be underestimated.

Prosperity in the Prognosis

Expressing his belief that the country is now in a period of prosperity, President Comp. Walton said that, "The prosperity we have seen in the past few years has been accompanied by a consciousness of the need to contribute to public welfare by giving more to society."

We should now pay active attention to the opportunities with which we find ourselves fortunate to be endowed. The opportunities we have in part have a historical perspective to them.

The past few years have been challenging for many. The same opportunities may be yet more challenging in the future. The past few years have shown that the need to contribute to public welfare by giving more to society is not only crucial but necessary.

The future will require us to contribute to public welfare by giving more to society. The opportunities we have in part have a historical perspective to them.
