A dinghy is a lot of fun
With cameras clicking right
And left
And whistles blowing up and don't jibe when you
Don't bump your marks
And the other boats.
A dinghy is a lot of fun
If your centerboard is up;
When you round the mark in a lot of wind look out!
Thank God I can swim.
Who's got a towel?
Get the Charles out of my eyes, dammit!
Get me out of here!

On a Dinghy

"Please add me to the athletes who get a 'lift' with a Camel"—Ray Ellinwood

I never fully realized just how much 'Geta' 'lift' with a Camel meant to me until I ran two world record-breaking quarters in one afternoon," Ray continues.

That's the time I put on my supreme effort. Afterwards a Camel helped me pull myself together—helped me change over from being tired to feeling full of pep. And that night I ate heartily and digested my meal as well as ever. This convinced me 100% on the value of enjoying Camels 'for digestion's sake.'

In every line of endeavor—active, hard-working men and women light up Camels to renew their vim and energy—to add more enjoyment to mealtimes—and to ease strain and tension.

Riddle

When you and I must part
Can sorrow break each tender heart?
I to a different land must roam, to Sleep and dream of you alone —
All that I can say is:
Night bids me go, I can not stay,
With deepest sorrow in my mind.
You will in this a riddle find.

There was an old woman who lived in a shoe.
She had so many children she didn't know what to do.
Obviously.
