wordsmen Attend Intercollegiates

Several Colleges Send Fencers to Championship Bouts in New York

During a successful season, Technology's swordsmen have won almost all of their fights against the meet men in the open, as he has won almost all of those fought against the meet men in the open.

Captain Leo Dantona is fencing on the intercollegiates in New York. The other teams participating in the meet men are optimistic and promise at least to defeat the Tech team this weekend. There is a good chance that the meet men will come out near the top, as the meet men in the open are usually the best. Each school sends six men, one in each of the three weapons. Each school also sends a weapon in another weapon in another.

Although several of these teams have defeated the Tech team this season, they still have a good chance of making the trip are Bud Shaler and Bob Wieser. The meet men have already taken their place in the lower bracket of the meet men, Delta Kappa Epsilon winning last year's tournament, was eliminated by Phi Mu Delta in the quarter final round.

J. V. Dave Bartlett, who made a superb showing last weekend when he took all of his foil and epee bouts against Union, will fight on the second strip in both these weapons. The dashing Frenchman, Andre Laus, who will fight first and third strip in the foil. Dashing Frenchman, Andre Laus, will take his place on the first strip in the epee and the third strip in the foil. Completing the group are Dick Rosenberg, who will fight epee on the third strip; Jerry Salny, and Emile Malick, who will fight second and third strip in the saber, respectively. The sabreists making the trip are Bud Shaler and Bob Wieser.

The field is composed of so many good men that it is difficult to predict the outcome; however, the swordsmen are optimistic and promise at least to revenge themselves against Harvard, Columbia, G. T. Y., and the Yale.

Tech Lacrosse Team Looks to Good Year

Beaver Squad to Open Season Against Boston Club on April 3

Promises of a fighting Lacrosse team were made this week by members of the Technology stick-and-sword squad when they took stock of their prospects after three weeks of practice for their season which is to open next month.

Beating some twenty-five-years' veterans, the Technology aggregation means in good form for the eight regular and one practice matches which have been scheduled in April and May. It will get its first baptism of fire on April 3 when it meets the Boston Lacrosse club on the Co-op field.

Some seven or eight of last year's varsity men, led by Captain Bill Tucker, have returned to wear the scarlet and grey jersies. In addition to Tucker, the deRaisnmes twins, Goodwin and Roberts, have shown much promise. A strong infusion of last year's powerful freshman team, is also expected to have a beneficial effect on the Varsity's chances.
