The crew which broke an Intervarsity record last Saturday. Heading from left to right the Varsity 150-pound crew: H. Withington; F. S. Atwater; W. Preston; R. Woodward; M. Millman; R. Wooster; J. Searl; E. P. Sturk; H. Warburton.

Rutgers, Harvard Vie With Beavers For Rowing Trophy

Varsity, Jayvees, Lightweights, Freshmen, Co-Eds - A Tech For First Time

Large I.P.C. Crowd Expected

Tech crew will come to the water again tomorrow when they play host to Har- vard, to compete in the last of the Rowing Regatta. As I.P.C. Scholastic crews, small and ample sponsors will watch the races.

The meet will start at 8 o’clock with the freshman race between Tech and the freshman crew of Harvard, which will be the first time a Scarlet boat is raced against a Tech crew. The Scholastic races will begin at 8:30, and the varsity race, in which Rutgers and Princeton teams will compete, will start at 8:45. The races will continue until 12:15.

A unique feature of the races will be the presence of a large crowd, including many spectators who will come from the Harvard-Brown Regatta at the Stadium race. The crowd is expected to number several thousand, and the races will be watched with great interest after the success of the Tech varsity crew at the Lake Placid regatta.

Dartmouth Stickmen Rout Beavers, 18-1

Lacrosse Team Meets Williams On Coop Field Saturday

Completely outclassed by a superior aggregation, the Tech lacrosse team was crushed by the Dartmouth stickmen by the score of 18-1 last Wednesday afternoon. Thirty-three times was the Red and black scored. Indeed, the game is usually marked the first time a Scarlet boat is racing in intercollegiate competition; the Red and black had a long wait.

Outside of the lightweights the postanemic season seems like the most likely to turn to a victory for the Tech. The Varsity men and the first, second, and third, have all been dealt with and are being prepared for the coming season.

The Beaver junior varsity will get another try at the Crimson after the varsity race, at 4:30.

The meet will start at 8 o’clock with the freshman race between Tech and the freshman crew of Harvard, which will be the first time a Scarlet boat is raced against a Tech crew. The Scholastic races will begin at 8:30, and the varsity race, in which Rutgers and Princeton teams will compete, will start at 8:45. The races will continue until 12:15.

A unique feature of the races will be the presence of a large crowd, including many spectators who will come from the Harvard-Brown Regatta at the Stadium race. The crowd is expected to number several thousand, and the races will be watched with great interest after the success of the Tech varsity crew at the Lake Placid regatta.

Dartmouth Stickmen Rout Beavers, 18-1

Lacrosse Team Meets Williams On Coop Field Saturday

Completely outclassed by a superior aggregation, the Tech lacrosse team was crushed by the Dartmouth stickmen by the score of 18-1 last Wednesday afternoon. Thirty-three times was the Red and black scored. Indeed, the game is usually marked the first time a Scarlet boat is racing in intercollegiate competition; the Red and black had a long wait.

Outside of the lightweights the postanemic season seems like the most likely to turn to a victory for the Tech. The Varsity men and the first, second, and third, have all been dealt with and are being prepared for the coming season.

The Beaver junior varsity will get another try at the Crimson after the varsity race, at 4:30.