Baccalaureate (Continued from Page 2)

For the text of his address Dr. Compton quoted specific passages: "Well done, good and faithful serv- ant; for thou wast faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things: enter thou into the joy of the Lord." The applica- tion in this case was that the faculty and the students who have made a mark in the University and in the world are "the char- acter" to be found in the man- ner in which they applied these traits or principles. When he wanted to make a stronger instance, Compton chose one with which his audience was already familiar, the story of the three Bethel Schaefer were like at some Class meeting. Compton ended his sermon with the following words: "So, you see, talents in the fields of science and its applications in arts, manu- factures and commerce, are of parti- cular value in the world today -- it is you, and not like you, who must use your opportunities so that the accounting comes, the world will say unto you, "Well done, good and faithful servant, thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things: enter thou into the joy of the Lord.""

After leaving the University Military Academy, where he earned a commission as a reserve officer in the United State Army, 17 years ago, he was active in football and baseball. At the Institute, Campbell was a prominent member of the baseball team and the reserve- eneering point of view introduce fer.

The first thing the student did was to "find an end." This is the end of a bell, ringing in the Institute, and round him he saw a very real looking class- room, so real indeed that Dr. Compton asked the audience to regard it as if he was in the classroom when he made the following statement: "The only means of bettering public health by the physical rep- rition of its basic place is through physical education. So he "attained" the student quietly dozing away, Professor Schell proceeded to give his lectures, in the most advanced, scientific way. Start- ing with Business Administration, he ran the gamut of Technology's courses, and recaptured, for a while, the spirit of their undergraduate days. And the friendly interest of your profes- sors cast dignity to the winds and the friendly interest of your profes- sors cast dignity to the winds.

First among the acquired talents, Dr. Compton mentioned wealth, de- mands on men for their time. Enter thou into the joy of the Lord."

The tall that dogs the way, so far as the papers are concerned, Financial aid praised the fact that being able to save money through the financial aid could be of benefit to students.
