Electors Held Wednesday

Election of candidates to the Junior Prom Committee will take place Thursday evening in the Commons.

Mabel Luby being open from 4-5:30, David C. William Gay and Robert Voss Smith have been added to the list of candidates. This election will be held on April 12.

Freshmen Victors in Field Day Battle

Football: True to predictions, the Class of '29 came through to win Field Day 5-0, despite an unexpected appearance of the Class of '25. The game was won by a touchdown early in the morning and was decided by a safety at the last minute. With the forty enthusiastic shouts by the classmates of '29 deafeningly echoed throughout the arena, the victorious game was won by a wide margin.

Track: After the score tied 7-7 at the start, the freshman team added 3 points to its lead, yet late in the last quarter, a clever dodge by a sophomore into the end zone clinched the score 25 to 12.

Seaboard and Blade Holds Honor Dinner in Memory of T. F. Roosevelt

In honor of National Seaboard and Blade Day, the anniversary of former President Theodore Roosevelt's country, Company G, 19th Infantry presented these awards to the most eligible senior of the Tech.

Theodore Roosevelt Honored At Dinner Of Company G, Fifth Regiment

The principal speaker of the evening and the guest of honor was Capt. Harry S. Truman, U. S. A., of the Great Artillery Corps, who talked on "The Present Chinese Situation and Its Implications." He was qualified to discuss the subject for his personal knowledge of the Far East and government to study conditions over there and to learn the languages, re- lated to the Far East. (Continued on Page 2)

Seaboard and Blade

Orchids Offered To Oscar For Field Day Promotions

An orchid to Oscar, the man whose little freshman tractor still "sputters" badly when he starts it, has been presented in honor of his first appearance on the field. It can be seen on Tuesday or Thursday in the Imperial Ballroom of the Hotel Statler. Four rosebuds to W. A. C. Willard, "Mr. Hedlund," because as second in line, has turned in the orchid to Oscar, the man whose little freshman tractor still "sputters" badly when he starts it. It can be seen on Tuesday or Thursday in the Imperial Ballroom of the Hotel Statler. Four rosebuds to W. A. C. Willard, "Mr. Hedlund," because as second in line, has turned in the orchid to Oscar, the man whose little freshman tractor still "sputters" badly when he starts it. It can be seen on Tuesday or Thursday in the Imperial Ballroom of the Hotel Statler. Four rosebuds to W. A. C. Willard, "Mr. Hedlund," because as second in line, has turned in the orchid to Oscar, the man whose little freshman tractor still "sputters" badly when he starts it. It can be seen on Tuesday or Thursday in the Imperial Ballroom of the Hotel Statler. Four rosebuds to W. A. C. Willard, "Mr. Hedlund," because as second in line, has turned in the orchid to Oscar, the man whose little freshman tractor still "sputters" badly when he starts it. It can be seen on Tuesday or Thursday in the Imperial Ballroom of the Hotel Statler. Four rosebuds to W. A. C. Willard, "Mr. Hedlund," because as second in line, has turned in the orchid to Oscar, the man whose little freshman tractor still "sputters" badly when he starts it. It can be seen on Tuesday or Thursday in the Imperial Ballroom of the Hotel Statler. Four rosebuds to W. A. C. Willard, "Mr. Hedlund," because as second in line, has turned in the orchid to Oscar, the man whose little freshman tractor still "sputters" badly when he starts it. It can be seen on Tuesday or Thursday in the Imperial Ballroom of the Hotel Statler. Four rosebuds to W. A. C. Willard, "Mr. Hedlund," because as second in line, has turned in the