CALANDER

Friday, November 12
6:00 P. M.—Boston Society of Chef Scientists Dinner—North Hall.
7:00 P. M.—Sponsorship Group Dinner—Fairly Room.
12:00 P. M.—Electrical Engineering Department Luncheon—Silver Rooms.
6:00 P. M.—Hotel Old Metting—West Lening.
6:30 P. M.—Superintendent's Round Table—Silver Rooms.

Building

(Continued from Page 1)

the student body, in addition to the new quarters for 360 graduate students. The new building may be made available for the residence and headquarters of the Institute, and for the present graduate house. The Institute's present graduate registration is now 661, and plans for student and residence housing will be made to include accommodations for more than 180 American college and some if not all foreign students. The new building will also include 214 foreign students who come from 24 different countries.

Commenting on plans for student housing, Dr. Earl T. Converse, President of the Institute, said that the new graduate dormitories. Plans are now under construction, he added, and will utilize some of the old dormitories for graduate student administration now in effect as the house is graduated. The new building will also add to the number of facilities for 650 undergraduates, or approximately 50 per cent of the student body, in addition to the new quarters for 360 graduate students. The new building may be made available for the residence and headquarters of the Institute, and for the present graduate house. The Institute's present graduate registration is now 661, and plans for student and residence housing will be made to include accommodations for more than 180 American college and some if not all foreign students. The new building will also include 214 foreign students who come from 24 different countries.

Building

(Continued from Page 1)

the student body, in addition to the new quarters for 360 graduate students. The new building may be made available for the residence and headquarters of the Institute, and for the present graduate house. The Institute's present graduate registration is now 661, and plans for student and residence housing will be made to include accommodations for more than 180 American college and some if not all foreign students. The new building will also include 214 foreign students who come from 24 different countries.

Commenting on plans for student housing, Dr. Earl T. Converse, President of the Institute, said that the new graduate dormitories. Plans are now under construction, he added, and will utilize some of the old dormitories for graduate student administration now in effect as the house is graduated. The new building will also add to the number of facilities for 650 undergraduates, or approximately 50 per cent of the student body, in addition to the new quarters for 360 graduate students. The new building may be made available for the residence and headquarters of the Institute, and for the present graduate house. The Institute's present graduate registration is now 661, and plans for student and residence housing will be made to include accommodations for more than 180 American college and some if not all foreign students. The new building will also include 214 foreign students who come from 24 different countries.

Building

(Continued from Page 1)

the student body, in addition to the new quarters for 360 graduate students. The new building may be made available for the residence and headquarters of the Institute, and for the present graduate house. The Institute's present graduate registration is now 661, and plans for student and residence housing will be made to include accommodations for more than 180 American college and some if not all foreign students. The new building will also include 214 foreign students who come from 24 different countries.

Commenting on plans for student housing, Dr. Earl T. Converse, President of the Institute, said that the new graduate dormitories. Plans are now under construction, he added, and will utilize some of the old dormitories for graduate student administration now in effect as the house is graduated. The new building will also add to the number of facilities for 650 undergraduates, or approximately 50 per cent of the student body, in addition to the new quarters for 360 graduate students. The new building may be made available for the residence and headquarters of the Institute, and for the present graduate house. The Institute's present graduate registration is now 661, and plans for student and residence housing will be made to include accommodations for more than 180 American college and some if not all foreign students. The new building will also include 214 foreign students who come from 24 different countries.

Building

(Continued from Page 1)

the student body, in addition to the new quarters for 360 graduate students. The new building may be made available for the residence and headquarters of the Institute, and for the present graduate house. The Institute's present graduate registration is now 661, and plans for student and residence housing will be made to include accommodations for more than 180 American college and some if not all foreign students. The new building will also include 214 foreign students who come from 24 different countries.

Commenting on plans for student housing, Dr. Earl T. Converse, President of the Institute, said that the new graduate dormitories. Plans are now under construction, he added, and will utilize some of the old dormitories for graduate student administration now in effect as the house is graduated. The new building will also add to the number of facilities for 650 undergraduates, or approximately 50 per cent of the student body, in addition to the new quarters for 360 graduate students. The new building may be made available for the residence and headquarters of the Institute, and for the present graduate house. The Institute's present graduate registration is now 661, and plans for student and residence housing will be made to include accommodations for more than 180 American college and some if not all foreign students. The new building will also include 214 foreign students who come from 24 different countries.

Building

(Continued from Page 1)

the student body, in addition to the new quarters for 360 graduate students. The new building may be made available for the residence and headquarters of the Institute, and for the present graduate house. The Institute's present graduate registration is now 661, and plans for student and residence housing will be made to include accommodations for more than 180 American college and some if not all foreign students. The new building will also include 214 foreign students who come from 24 different countries.

Commenting on plans for student housing, Dr. Earl T. Converse, President of the Institute, said that the new graduate dormitories. Plans are now under construction, he added, and will utilize some of the old dormitories for graduate student administration now in effect as the house is graduated. The new building will also add to the number of facilities for 650 undergraduates, or approximately 50 per cent of the student body, in addition to the new quarters for 360 graduate students. The new building may be made available for the residence and headquarters of the Institute, and for the present graduate house. The Institute's present graduate registration is now 661, and plans for student and residence housing will be made to include accommodations for more than 180 American college and some if not all foreign students. The new building will also include 214 foreign students who come from 24 different countries.

Building

(Continued from Page 1)

the student body, in addition to the new quarters for 360 graduate students. The new building may be made available for the residence and headquarters of the Institute, and for the present graduate house. The Institute's present graduate registration is now 661, and plans for student and residence housing will be made to include accommodations for more than 180 American college and some if not all foreign students. The new building will also include 214 foreign students who come from 24 different countries.

Commenting on plans for student housing, Dr. Earl T. Converse, President of the Institute, said that the new graduate dormitories. Plans are now under construction, he added, and will utilize some of the old dormitories for graduate student administration now in effect as the house is graduated. The new building will also add to the number of facilities for 650 undergraduates, or approximately 50 per cent of the student body, in addition to the new quarters for 360 graduate students. The new building may be made available for the residence and headquarters of the Institute, and for the present graduate house. The Institute's present graduate registration is now 661, and plans for student and residence housing will be made to include accommodations for more than 180 American college and some if not all foreign students. The new building will also include 214 foreign students who come from 24 different countries.

Building

(Continued from Page 1)

the student body, in addition to the new quarters for 360 graduate students. The new building may be made available for the residence and headquarters of the Institute, and for the present graduate house. The Institute's present graduate registration is now 661, and plans for student and residence housing will be made to include accommodations for more than 180 American college and some if not all foreign students. The new building will also include 214 foreign students who come from 24 different countries.

Commenting on plans for student housing, Dr. Earl T. Converse, President of the Institute, said that the new graduate dormitories. Plans are now under construction, he added, and will utilize some of the old dormitories for graduate student administration now in effect as the house is graduated. The new building will also add to the number of facilities for 650 undergraduates, or approximately 50 per cent of the student body, in addition to the new quarters for 360 graduate students. The new building may be made available for the residence and headquarters of the Institute, and for the present graduate house. The Institute's present graduate registration is now 661, and plans for student and residence housing will be made to include accommodations for more than 180 American college and some if not all foreign students. The new building will also include 214 foreign students who come from 24 different countries.

Building

(Continued from Page 1)

the student body, in addition to the new quarters for 360 graduate students. The new building may be made available for the residence and headquarters of the Institute, and for the present graduate house. The Institute's present graduate registration is now 661, and plans for student and residence housing will be made to include accommodations for more than 180 American college and some if not all foreign students. The new building will also include 214 foreign students who come from 24 different countries.

Commenting on plans for student housing, Dr. Earl T. Converse, President of the Institute, said that the new graduate dormitories. Plans are now under construction, he added, and will utilize some of the old dormitories for graduate student administration now in effect as the house is graduated. The new building will also add to the number of facilities for 650 undergraduates, or approximately 50 per cent of the student body, in addition to the new quarters for 360 graduate students. The new building may be made available for the residence and headquarters of the Institute, and for the present graduate house. The Institute's present graduate registration is now 661, and plans for student and residence housing will be made to include accommodations for more than 180 American college and some if not all foreign students. The new building will also include 214 foreign students who come from 24 different countries.