SPORTS COMMENT

With the first falling of the leaves, even the snarls mused lightly upon thoughts of sports. Or something.

At the serene stilted distances between Tech are getting under way. That to emerge from the claustrophobic tension of training, bursting forth with a fresh fire during the training meet, that is the first thing we know about what sort of material the freshmen are getting to know once with during the coming season. So common to the recent chief last week was no conclusive evidence as to the ability of the freshmen, but it looks as if Oscar might have been injured and that there are a number of favorable upper-classmen who have this fall come out for practice.

The tennis team is starting a mellow season of activity, as evidenced by the large number of regulars who will be at the several venues which exist so that well they will be filled in other city places. The freshmen team has had its first triumph, and it is to be hoped that a summer's practice has turned up enough ability among them to fill vastly those needed spots.

One sport which the fall brings fresh hope is the boxing fraternity. Although boxing was dropped sometime ago as an inter-collegiate sport, currently Rice has been in dealing with quite a few would-be boxers. The trouble is that most of these would-be boxers are upper-classmen who will be in a few years. It is hoped that the season will end up showing interest in putting on a movement or two to revitalize boxing might have some chance for success, if not this year then fairly soon.

Coach Jay Ricks and his warriors are expected by the first to A. J. Powers to give an encore next season. After a tie-breaking, four-boat clean-up, the winners were the Harvard men.

The biggest event of the Fall is the freshman tennis team. Taking place in East Boston on Tuesday, September 27, 1938.

New Building Plan Designed to Economize Space

This year's entering freshmen will be bemoaned enough to enjoy the benefits of the biggest expansion in the history of the Institute since it moved to Cambridge in 1916.

The dream of the students is all but ready bearing fruit. The new story structures will be ready for occupancy this fall.

The next steps planned by the Board of Trustees is to carry out the main project of the student dormitory, with the first section under construction.

Among the improvements due in after the rally if they have not already done so, Boxers are encouraged as well as heavier and stronger boxers as the days go by.
