THANKS FOR THE WEATHER

Mark Twa\'s remark that everyone talks about the weather but no one does anything about it has become almost a part of American folklore. No one ever does much about the weather, except predict it. And then for times when no one wants to do anything about it, such as the post several days when that irrepressible snow storm was having its will.

There is little enough going on to pull the student out of our routine, yet the weather will always have an effect on him. No but one the student can get so much. One must really look for a sure cure for that is it is more a matter of amusement.

The behavior of gases should have stimulated far more and far abler inquiry than the nature of the weather. To be sure they are more in a given place. They will reveal a basis on which a sound rational and equitable distribution.
