THE READER SPEAKS

Editor of The Tech:

In the lead editorial on Tuesday, the Tech takes up the questions of politics in the choosing of class officers. The idea is fine in its simplicity but it is certainly impractical as you make it out. The first stage is to choose among the candidates proposed by the various slates and then to put the top two in line to divine their winning election. That is the picking of members of the undisciplined class honorary societies. I will propose that we divide the candidates into two volumes of Technique.

The Reader

The figures for 1938 were: Nine from Pi Gamma Delta, four from Delta Kappa Epsilon, Sigma Xi, Theta Chi, and Phi Delta Chi, a total of twenty-two men from the fraternity men, two dorm men and no commuters.

In 1939 the figures are: Two from Delta Phi Epsilon, two Delta Tau Delta, Alpha Tau Omega, and Theta Chi, a total of twenty-two members from the fraternity men, two dorm men and no commuters.

In the same case summarized for Beaver Key in 1938 are: Five members from Delta Kappa Epsilon, four from Pi Gamma Delta, Delta Tau Delta, Alpha Tau Omega, and Theta Chi, a total of twenty-two members from the fraternity men, two dorm men and no commuters.

For Beaver Key in 1939 the figures are: Five members from Delta Kappa Epsilon, four from Pi Gamma Delta, Delta Tau Delta, Alpha Tau Omega, and Theta Chi, a total of twenty-two members from the fraternity men, two dorm men and no commuters.

For the purposes of the rating of the candidates, one must judge them by a liberal system of choosing the candidates presented to them by the various fraternities and the candidates, who can not make their winning seat.
