SCIENCE IN BRIEF

by Arthur W. York, Jr.

Another of these curious diseases that lead to vole furs has recently been discovered through agricultural investigations at Cornell University. The vole, a little rodent that is part of the lemming family, has been found to be carriers of illness between humans and mosquitoes. The disease, known as boderius, is transmitted to humans through bites of infected mosquitoes. People with this disease may experience fever, chills, headaches, and fatigue. The disease is typically mild and self-limiting, but severe cases have been reported.
