Glider Accident

Gliders have a limited range and must be launched from a "starting point," not necessarily a launching site. In the case of the Bausch and Lomb glider, the starting point was a point several miles away from the launching site. The glider was launched from a hillside about 10 miles from the airfield, and the launching site was reached by car. The glider was flown for about 30 minutes, and then the pilot landed it on the ground. The glider was in perfect condition when it landed, and there were no injuries.

Dorm Riot

floor by floor, carrying all Sophomores into the showers by sheer man power.

It has been estimated by neutral observers that no fewer than sixty

Sophomores were involved in the riot, and that they caused some damage to the property. The riot was over a dispute about the use of a certain common room by the Sophomores, who wanted to use it for a social gathering. The Freshmen, who were opposed to the use of the room, called the rioters to arrest them and to protect their property. The Sophomores refused to comply with the Freshmen's demand, and a violent clash ensued.

Outing Club

The group will leave from the steps of Walker Memorial at 9:00 A.M. It is requested that all members wishing to attend this or one of the other trips sign up on the bulletin board in the main lobby of Building 16.

The first rock-climbing trip, which was attended by sixteen people, was held last Sunday at Quincy quarries. The majority of the time was spent in instructing the novice in the use of the climbing-ropes to belaying and rappelling. (Belaying is the use of a rope as a safety device while climbing, while rappelling is the use of a rope as a means of lowering oneself down the face of a cliff.)
