catching up with Princeton, and were, on the whole, sailing more consistently than the Blues and Purdies. Once or twice, however, the Princeton boys did well while the Blues men lagged, which made the task of catching the Princeton skipper harder. Despite these setbacks, however, the Engineer sailors were steadily catching up with two races in each division still to be run. But last night's race to Purdies to make it easy. If they catch in them, no chance. In the final round Princeton, 19; Tech, 16; Brown, 13.
