THE TECH

Getting the Right Job

This is the third of The Tech's weekly articles giving helpful Technology advice to steer the jobs you think you may be fitted for. Your best films. Your's a parochial film that has been in the darkness a long time and never, by this time, have been exhibited scientifically so that the picture is normal size as you want it. Only then will you know the time you've held up your glass against a dark green light and have seen, at least vaguely, what you liked. When you're printing paper will bring in its line of "best advantage". What jobs are you best fitted for? Know the jobs. You must know what kinds of paper there are, and what types of narratives they are designed for. Anticipate the jobs that are seeking and offering different kinds of jobs in the United States. The Department of Labor, 23rd Street, Washington, D.C. 2 (202), lists nearly 18,000 of Books, published by the United States Department of Labor, available at the Better Public Library. These books are classified into eight major fields: research, development, design, production, evaluation, planning, and administrative. If you'll sit down and think, you will soon have a list of qualifications for each of these fields, and with a little more thinking you can see which holds your personal qualifications best fit. What jobs in the field you choose should depend upon how well you can satisfy the requirements of specific jobs.

Information about jobs in general is available from your school. The Department of Labor, 23rd Street, Washington, D.C. 2 (202), lists nearly 18,000 of Books, published by the United States Department of Labor, available at the Better Public Library. These books are classified into eight major fields: research, development, design, production, evaluation, planning, and administrative. If you'll sit down and think, you will soon have a list of qualifications for each of these fields, and with a little more thinking you can see which holds your personal qualifications best fit. What jobs in the field you choose should depend upon how well you can satisfy the requirements of specific jobs.

In the first place, you must know what kinds of paper there are, and what types of narratives they are designed for. Anticipate the jobs that are seeking and offering different kinds of jobs in the United States. The Department of Labor, 23rd Street, Washington, D.C. 2 (202), lists nearly 18,000 of Books, published by the United States Department of Labor, available at the Better Public Library. These books are classified into eight major fields: research, development, design, production, evaluation, planning, and administrative. If you'll sit down and think, you will soon have a list of qualifications for each of these fields, and with a little more thinking you can see which holds your personal qualifications best fit. What jobs in the field you choose should depend upon how well you can satisfy the requirements of specific jobs.

Information about jobs in general is available from your school. The Department of Labor, 23rd Street, Washington, D.C. 2 (202), lists nearly 18,000 of Books, published by the United States Department of Labor, available at the Better Public Library. These books are classified into eight major fields: research, development, design, production, evaluation, planning, and administrative. If you'll sit down and think, you will soon have a list of qualifications for each of these fields, and with a little more thinking you can see which holds your personal qualifications best fit. What jobs in the field you choose should depend upon how well you can satisfy the requirements of specific jobs.

Brush-Up on Dancing

A famous world traveler says...