Crew Races
(Continued from Page 1)

A golden opportunity to win a race was wafted upon Harvard's prow as the Harvard crew took the lead after the Leander's disappearance four minutes into the race.

The Cardinal, rowing in 6.61, decided to begin the race with the help of a clear sky.

The Harvard crew took advantage of the wind and held the lead at the quarter mile.

Frantically, Harvard rowed itself to the lead at the halfway point.

The Cardinal, with Harvard still in the lead, continued to row. Harvard defeated the Cardinal in the eventual final meet by more than one mile.

Crewmen singed rubber into the air to lighten the course for the Harvard crew.

The Cardinal, now in second place, was drifting astern and Harvard was rowing into
the lead.

Harvard continued to row and pass the Cardinal as the race progressed.

Crewmen sang a song to lighten the air and the Harvard crew took advantage of the wind to win the race.

The Cardinal, now in third place, was drifting astern and Harvard was rowing into
the lead.

The Harvard crew defeated the Cardinal in the eventual final meet by more than one mile.

Crewmen sang a song to lighten the air
and the Harvard crew took advantage of the
wind to win the race.

The Cardinal, now in third place, was drifting astern and Harvard was rowing into
the lead.

The Harvard crew defeated the Cardinal in
the eventual final meet by more than one
mile.

Crewmen sang a song to lighten the air
and the Harvard crew took advantage of the
wind to win the race.

The Cardinal, now in third place, was drifting astern and Harvard was rowing into
the lead.

The Harvard crew defeated the Cardinal in
the eventual final meet by more than one
mile.

Crewmen sang a song to lighten the air
and the Harvard crew took advantage of the
wind to win the race.

The Cardinal, now in third place, was drifting astern and Harvard was rowing into
the lead.

The Harvard crew defeated the Cardinal in
the eventual final meet by more than one
mile.

Crewmen sang a song to lighten the air
and the Harvard crew took advantage of the
wind to win the race.

The Cardinal, now in third place, was drifting astern and Harvard was rowing into
the lead.

The Harvard crew defeated the Cardinal in
the eventual final meet by more than one
mile.

Crewmen sang a song to lighten the air
and the Harvard crew took advantage of the
wind to win the race.

The Cardinal, now in third place, was drifting astern and Harvard was rowing into
the lead.

The Harvard crew defeated the Cardinal in
the eventual final meet by more than one
mile.

Crewmen sang a song to lighten the air
and the Harvard crew took advantage of the
wind to win the race.

The Cardinal, now in third place, was drifting astern and Harvard was rowing into
the lead.

The Harvard crew defeated the Cardinal in
the eventual final meet by more than one
mile.

Crewmen sang a song to lighten the air
and the Harvard crew took advantage of the
wind to win the race.

The Cardinal, now in third place, was drifting astern and Harvard was rowing into
the lead.

The Harvard crew defeated the Cardinal in
the eventual final meet by more than one
mile.

Crewmen sang a song to lighten the air
and the Harvard crew took advantage of the
wind to win the race.

The Cardinal, now in third place, was
...