How To Study is Subject Of Lecture Series

Student-Faculty Luncheon Tabled For Next Term

"How to Study," a series of lectures designed to aid freshmen in putting their study hours to better use, will be given the last week of this term under the auspices of the Student-Faculty Luncheon. The series has been announced last week by the student members of this committee.

These lectures will be given by one of the members of the educational teaching staff of Tech, and will continue each week of the second week of next term, and ending the week of March 8.

According to the present schedule, each lecture will be given twice, and the attendance of two or three sections of each lecture has been arranged so that the second lecture of the second section of most meetings of the luncheon will be given only one time during the week. It is hoped that students who wish to attend the lectures should be able to arrange with their regular instructors to make up any classes which they may have missed.

The first lecture will be given from 8:00 A.M. to 8:45 A.M., on Thursday, March 8, and 8. The other lecture hour will be Thursday, from 8:00 A.M. to 8:45 A.M., on Thursday, March 8, and 18. The other lecture hour will be Friday, from 3:00 P.M. to 3:45 P.M., on Friday, March 8, and 26, and on Monday, March 18, and 22.

Not Required

This course of lectures is not in any way required of any men; however, it has been highly recommended by various authorities, and personal counsel to freshmen, and has been offered to the members of the Junior Class how such a course would affect their personal view. The bulletin sheet will ask for the following question:

"If it becomes necessary for the Freshmen to continue for a longer period, what other class would they be interested in taking?"
