Field Day Football
Scoreless Tie; Frosh Win Fight By Six Gloves

ended with the score knotted at 0-0.

The relay race followed, and the Sophomores went out to an early lead. Gradually, however, the frosh runners closed up the gap, and for one whole lap the runners were almost neck and neck. The Sophs were again pulling away to a lead, which the frosh might have closed up, had not the third last runner on the frosh team tripped and fallen as he stretched to pass the baton to the next man, who apparently had started out too fast.

The Sophs went on to win the second pull of the tug-of-war, and a much livelier Soph football team took the field against the frosh in the second half of the football game. The frosh held in midfield after the Sophs had advanced thirty yards in the opening plays of the third quarter. From there on the game was even, although the freshmen threatened in the last quarter. The result of the game was a 0-0 tie, giving each class two points toward its Field Day total.

The frosh won the third and deciding pull of the tug-of-war, giving them the three points allotted for this event. Then the two classes rolled up their sleeves, tightened up their belts, and prepared to "engage in combat." Going into the glove fight the Sophomores were leading 11 to 5, thus being assured of victory for the day even should they lose this event.

For twenty hectic minutes gloves, shirts, shoes, stockings, and pats were the center of the annual struggle. Then followed a long fifteen minutes while the marshals counted and pieced together fragments of the gloves. The final count was 232 red gloves, and 226 white gloves, giving the frosh a total of eight Field Day points to the Sophs eleven.

Ticket Shortage
Becomes Problem
Officers Attend

Attracted by the rhythms of the Arabian Nights and the singing of beautiful Donna Mason, Tech men last week rushed to purchase the three hundred tickets offered by the Field Day Dance Committee in order to attend the dance scheduled for Monday. Faced with the tantalizing prospect of a date and a ticket to the dance, many were forced to pay high prices for secure tickets. However, it is rumored that one freshman secured tickets for $11.00 for a ticket so as not to appoint the home town girl he was looking forward to meeting at the Technology dance.

In keeping with Tech's policy of entertaining men in style here at school, the Field Day Dance Committee invited fifteen new members to attend the dance this year. The decorations which up to this time have been kept secret are designed around the theme of the Arabian Nights.

Lounge Bar, Pritchett Hall
To provide ample facilities for the 700 or so freshmen the Committee announces that the Lounge Bar in Pritchett Hall is open to Field Day Dance ticket holders only. Furthermore, Pritchett Hall is open and is serving drinks on the same basis as the Lounge Bar. Hence refreshments are obtainable on the second floor. The celebrations of the Field Day week will be concluded Sunday with a Dormitory Tea, which will take place in the B1 Lounge of Munroe Hall. All residents of the dormitories are cordially invited to be present this function from 4:00 P.M. to 6:00 P.M.
