Rationing Greatly Increases War-time Problems of Walker

(Rat. Ed: This is the final article of a series on the War-time Problems of the Walker Memorial Dining Service, which appeared in two previous issues.)

The rationing of tires and trucks last week has greatly increased the difficulties of the Walker Memorial Dining Service. Supplies of certain items are now very limited, and the service is now being cut back on these items. The supply is now limited to one half that which they had had in the previous period. Since 1941. Although this cut was expected, it was worse than the one by Herbert W. the Dining Service, although the
