thus be ready to join as soon as those papers arrived.

Although the above deadline has been set at an arbitrary time, applicants have until December 31 to complete their enrollment. This date was set in a ruling by the First Corps Area Command, but the December 1st deadline was set as a great deal of the last minute rush could be avoided. This gives more time to those who have obtained waivers, etc., and will serve to keep the Christmas holidays free.

the same scale to produce a complete model of the entire earth. A complete research of the geography and mountain formations of the Solomon group preceded the actual construction of the final product. As a result of this careful preparation the Hobby Shop can produce a very accurate picture of geological study. Every bit of land represented on the model was molded by hand. During the coming week the painting and finishing will be completed and the model will be ready for display in Building 10.

Bradley Haun, one of the hobbyists connected with the project, plans to include a model conception of the recent Solomon Island naval battle in the exhibit. Having made a study of naval tactics and formations, Haun has built up a complete fleet of model warships. These will be arranged in battle formation on the completed map, representing a close duplication of the actual battle positions as they were in the clash. The exhibit will undoubtedly make appearances outside of Technology after its initial showing here, MHN said.

“Ahoy there you land-lubbers!”

From a gallant son of the seas those words rang out to the assembled guests at the Infirmary last night, Christmas theme, but as in the usual morning affair, did not die out until after the music had died down.

Running in competition with the annual night dance of Junior from week-end, the Deke's held their annual Gay Nineties party in their house on Memorial Drive Saturday night. With most of the members of the house dressed in costumes of the times, the Deke house presented a very colorful scene. It was also a rather starting one for those who are used to seeing something in the modern suits, and who have never seen one of those famous parties.

“Take it from an old timer...”

...from an ancient mariner forty years in the service of the United States Coast Guard... who has seen brave men go down to the sea in ships, 'This here war ain't no sea-going picnic!'

Well spoken, old timer. From a gallant son of the seas those words are an eloquent sermon, a grim challenge to every American and a salute to the United States Navy. Every deeply etched line, every furrow on your weather beaten brow marks you a man of courage and faithfulness to your country, and to the ideals of bravery of every American who has ever taken the oath of allegiance to the United States.

As an “old timer” in the uniform business, Leopold Morse is proud of its ninety year record of service. Today, as authorized Government agents for Army and Navy officers' uniforms, we renew our pledge to you... the people at war and again tell you that our newly enlarged uniform department is equipped to give you the best possible service... at prices that challenge comparison.
