A page from 'The Tech,' dated January 22, 1943, contains articles discussing diplomacy, Selective Service, and the ongoing war effort. The articles touch on the importance of maintaining a strong nation and the role of individuals in contributing to the war effort. The content is a reflection of the period's emphasis on national unity and the collective responsibility for winning the war.