volunteers. In the time there have been virtually satisfied in lighter moments all manner of bird and beast and professor. For as far back as we can remember (hearsay has it for as far back as anyone can remember, but final like a claim that a Pocahontas Ravens have taken their unwelcome but unfinished place on the tail end of the term schedule, and the editors of Technology's newspaper.

Since for many of the victims of the "system" next week will be their last tangle, it is fitting to record for subsequent examiners that the class of '44 was, as usual, opposed to finals and in addition that with good grace, the class of '44 took their exams and vice-versa.

Following is in the examination period a large portion of the class of '44, already in uniform will leave the Institute, and for those students there is a new task to be performed. To lighten this task with encouragement the Institute should return its policies with regard to resuming interrupted education after the war. It has been generally assumed that leaves of absence as well as full credits for completed courses will be given to departing students. Nonetheless an official notice to that effect would indeed be appreciated in all quarters and would be interpreted as the final hand signal before departure.

The time has come to say goodbye. With this issue of The Tech, is brought to a close another semester of publishing the undergraduate magazine. With this task done, Editor and Business Manager take the opportunity to congratulate Junior board members and staff assistants called into the armed services leave as well, and the task of instilling The Tech will fall upon the incoming crop. The problem we have to face is big but they will be overcome.

In conclusion, leaving the Institute to those members of '44 who are still with us, we say goodbye as well as to the Sophomores in the E.R.C. and to the others who will leave the Institute to fight in a new manner on new grounds. Saying goodbye, however, we are not in an effort to put an end as but, one great consolation is that a
