Tech Wins New England Cross-Country Crown; Tufts Ted Vogel First

Harriers Enter I.C.-A.A. Championships Sat. At Van Courtland Park

Ted Vogel, the New England Intercollegiate Track Association's Most Valuable Runner, led the pack all the way to the finish line as the Tufts Harriers swept the annual New England Intercollégiate Cross-Country Relays. The victorious quads maintained their unchallenged Dana Robinson, however, for 15:40, but for 15:40, took

The winning time of 22:08 was remarkably fast given the sloppy conditions of the course after the rain. The distance of four and one fourth miles was laid out over the whole distance with Coplan, Ken Joseph and Art Schwartz leading the way.

A struggle for third place saw the first hundred yards won by Captain Joseph and little Art Schwartz, who is now taking part in his first year of running competition. The latter just nosed out Ken Joseph to place third.

At the finish line, the Tech men captured the coveted 15:40, and ended up with five men under eighteen minutes. Army, Pittsburgh, Penn State, Princeton, Cornell, and Bucknell rounded out the top ten spots.

The latter were the vanguard of varsity teams that settled down and played a solid game as the Tech men who will make up the squad is whittled to gym proportions.

There will be no immediate cut in the present varsity. This summer the squash courts, the United Seamen’s Service, and sailors worked out to the participating agencies. Every dollar donated goes directly to the participating agencies. This summer the squash courts, the United Seamen’s Service, and sailors worked out to the participating agencies.
