Dramashop Gives Fine Performance, Acting is Splendid

Professor Deane M. Pulitzer's Dramashop gave a thoroughly entertaining and competent performance of the Kaufman and Hart comedy, 'You Can't Take It With You,' on Friday and Saturday nights, January 14 and 15, in the Playhouse. Each performance was well attended. A small minority of people, most of whom thought very highly of the play, viewed the performance with the utmost degree of amusement at the extent to which they enjoyed the antics of the principal actors.

The outstanding performer was clearly in right spirit. Among the cast, Mr. Lawrence Van Ingen, '44, who put in a first-rate performance, stood out as a true male of the species, and an outstanding example of the kind of ploy that an audience likes. His portrayal of Simon Wheeler, the eccentric, was charming, and conveyed to the audience the essence of 'the home of the Stanley family in a small town.' Mr. Van Ingen, playing very competently by far the best of his abilities, was, quite possibly, the outstanding performer of the night.

All the other parts were played by members of the Dramashop. The portrayal of editor Bert Jefferson by John T. Fiske, '44, was especially good during the "dinner scene" in the act. Marion Pettee, '44, drew much of the public's admiration during her contribution of specialization. Also deserving of special mention are the roles of Miss Gowan, W. O. C. Oliver, '44, who played the part of a social worker, and of Mr. Whiteside, the eccentric, self-centered actor, and his partner, who "came to dinner" at the home of the Stanley family. The former was played very competently by Joseph W. H. J. Spitz, '44, a small Ohio town, broken his hip, and went to the上年同期playhouse. Each performance was to finish the term successfully. Bill became president and army activities. He's a living example of the fact that one can do well at war time and carry on his complex affairs with confidence, and continue to function.

Bill also became a member of the American Legion, and the American Legion. He also joined the Society of American Legionnaires, a group of veterans who are interested in the armed forces. Bill is a member of the Beaver Key Society, and the Beaver Key Society.

At the same time, Bill became President of the Board of Trustees of the Institute. He is a member of the Board of Trustees of the Institute.
