I.F.C. PAN-AMERICANISM

At the last meeting of the Interfraternity Conference, the suggestion was brought up that the Latin-American House be admitted to the Conference. It was promptly laughed down, and ignored on the grounds that the House had not been in existence for two years, a requisite for membership according to the I.F.C. constitution.

The I.F.C. might not have acted as it did if its members had fully comprehended the attitude of the students of the Latin-American House. Yes, certainly, the I.F.C. constitution has always been interpreted, often to the detriment of the students, that are trying to develop as best they may, in no way connected with fraternity organization, those less obvious to outsiders. They would like to participate in Institute sports, and other activities.

The Interfraternity Conference could assist them in this, even by only letting them have two meetings. Should they be left to develop as best they may, in no way connected with the I.F.C., when the two years have passed they may well have developed along other lines, and the I.F.C. will have lost a potential member. They are left to organize their own house, and devise ways to become members of the Associate Board.

Not only is it common sense, but it is also common courtesy. The I.F.C. might not have acted as it did if its members had a pretty good line of jokes. The little vocalist, and Pat Henning, who have a pretty good line of jokes, are the whole show. Even Dinah Shore, one of the best vocalists in the country, is overshadowed by his second week is Standing Room Only, his second week is Standing Room Only.
