Dramashop Play To Be Presented On January 20

Tickets Now On Sale For “The Drunkard,” At The T.C.A. Office

The Dramashop’s play for this term, “The Drunkard,” will be staged on January 20 in the New England Mutual Hall. Tickets for it may be purchased from any Dramashop member, at the T.C.A., and at the Information Office for $1.00, including tax.

This performance will be the hundredth anniversary of the first performance of the play. The first presentation was given in the old Boston Museum in the season of 1844-1845, and was produced by the famed P. T. Barnum.

The plot of the play deals with a youth, Edward Middleton, played by Claude W. Brenner, 2-47, who starts on the trail of drink, and is egged-on by the villainous lawyer, Scribbis, who is Robert W. Connor, 2-47. He finally succumbs to the “wretched vice,” and the climax of the play is reached in the scene where young Middleton experiences “delirium tremens,” and is about to commit suicide when he is saved by the philanthropist Arden Rence-
