Slade Kinncott, Orrin's daughter, played by Frieda S. Omansky, 6-45, is engaged to Bunny, and comes to find out from Marion how she "made" Bunny, and thereby creates a very amusing situation.

Harvard Prof. Speaking At Intercollege Program

The Radcliffe Interfaith Fellowship has invited all interested students to an evening program, April 25, on "Bigotry and Antigirigkeit in Boston." Dr. Gordon W. Allport, Professor in the Psychology Department at Harvard and Radcliffe, will be the main speaker. There will be refreshments and a discussion period afterwards. The program will be held at the Agassiz House in the Radcliffe Quadrangle at 7:30 P.M.

All interested in attending this program should sign up at the T.C.A. office.

Clothing Collection To Finish April 30

“What Can You Spare That They Can Wear?” With this slogan, the T.C.A. is sponsoring its drive for spare clothing for overseas war relief. Under the leadership of Edward F. Brylawski, 2-46, letters have been sent to the fraternities and to the Dormitories to enlist everyone’s cooperation in the campaign which ends on April 30, only one week away. The drive is being held in conjunction with the efforts of the United National Clothing Collection for Overseas War Relief at most of the major colleges of the nation.

Designated receptacles have been placed in various places throughout the Institute and in Walker Memorial. If you are unable to deliver the clothing yourself, call the T.C.A. offices and arrangements will be made to call for them.
