Navy Intramural League In Final Round Of Season

The Navy intramural basketball league goes into its final round next week. The most competitive of the teams, which are just pooling their strength, will be in play at least once. The teams will be divided into 12 sections in the playoffs which will start a week from Monday. The exact form of the playoffs has not been determined as yet, but will be posted soon.

As the teams enter the final stage of this season's play, team one from the first company is entrenched in first place with three wins and no losses. Close behind and showing definite improvement is number two with two and 1 record. Also to be reckoned with is team three, which has an unofficial early season victory over the league leaders.

In the games played before vacation, the two representatives of the first platoon, first company were each victorious, and team number two defeated number ten to take second place in the standings.

With Young and Fleming pacing the attack with 6 and 7 points respectively, team two is in a tight race with Navy. Hoys was high man for the losers with 5 points.

Team One Wins Twice

The first game showed the strength which has been expected of this team. It was won 25-17, and the other game was won 32-17, perfectly in all departments of the game, which was a repeat of last year's meeting. Four number four. Mathews led the offensive with four baskets and one free throw, as well as Mark and Mark, each tossed up 3 points. Both of these and Jackson dropped in three baskets apiece to keep team one in the game all the way.

In the other game played, Berg led the scoring with four field goals and 4 points. Frey tossed in 3 more to put the score to 19-3. Team two, and Toperzer, Dorflinger and Rain were high man for the losers with 5 points.

League In Final Week

As the teams enter the final stage of their season, the big story is the rivalry between the league leaders, who are just pleading for their titles. To date, number two holds an unofficial early season victory over the league leaders. However, the five men representing the Green are all ex-A.C.'s and veterans. The members of the opposing team are not fire.

Little is known about the Dartmouth quintet since this will be their first appearance of the season. However, the five men representing the Green are all ex-A.C.'s and veterans. The members of the opposing team are not fire.

As the teams meet tonight, the Crimson, which has been tentatively set for 7:45, will be at top trim for the opening home game, as the scheduled opener with Northeastern was snowed out before vacation. When Tech opened its season on the Harvard court, Oxford, composed of all-American Wyndol from Bowling Green, walked away with a 5-3 victory. Tomorrow's rematch of these two teams will determine the meeting's winner. The Crimson is expected to go up strong and come away with a victory.

The Green are all ex-G. I.'s and veterans. However, the five men representing the Green are all ex-A.C.'s and veterans. The members of the opposing team are not fire. The two representatives of the first platoon, first company were each victorious, and team number two defeated number ten to take second place in the standings.

With Young and Fleming pacing the attack with 6 and 7 points respectively, team two is in a tight race with Navy. Hoys was high man for the losers with 5 points.

Team One Wins Twice

The first game showed the strength which has been expected of this team. It was won 25-17, and the other game was won 32-17, perfectly in all departments of the game, which was a repeat of last year's meeting. Four number four. Mathews led the offensive with four baskets and one free throw, as well as Mark and Mark, each tossed up 3 points. Both of these and Jackson dropped in three baskets apiece to keep team one in the game all the way.

In the other game played, Berg led the scoring with four field goals and 4 points. Frey tossed in 3 more to put the score to 19-3. Team two, and Toperzer, Dorflinger and Rain were high man for the losers with 5 points.