AW, NUTS!

Every election at the Institute tells the same story—most Technicians have neither the will nor the interest to exercise the franchise granted to them as members of the undergraduate student body. Time and again statistics show, as do the following figures: In the last regular election, the turnout was low enough to take two minutes out of their lunch period to mark. No ballots and 60% of 2-48. That last figure is unusually high for participation as compared to others in the past few years. There is absolutely no reason at all why 95% or even 100% of a class should not exercise its right to vote, when election officers are present. And if it is slow, don’t you care who gets these positions, or is it that you feel that the right men weren’t nominated? If that’s the case why didn’t you see to it that someone better was nominated?

The 2-46 elections are a disgrace to the class. Permanent election officers were elected to carry on the class as a whole after their term is over. Some of the permanent officers were not even members of their class. These officers were elected to look after the permanent welfare of the class. That was their function. If they were to look after the interests of the junior and senior classes, it would not be a disgrace, but it is definitely known that 2-46 will not hold such a Division head until the next term, when it is definitely known that the new Division heads will be chosen after the election.

The election results show that only 46% of the Class of 2-46 cast ballots as interest in the proceedings.

The Bloys' Work Division has had its last election. Sixty per cent of this class cast ballots, showing an appreciable interest over previous ones. The activities officers for being the coming term, each elected with the approval of the class. It will be postponed to a later date. The election officers for being the coming term, elections by mail may be obtained at the Tech office during the early part of next week. 5:00 P.M. and 6:00 P.M. on Tuesday, February 11 at the Hotel Statler.

The other officers of the Class of 2-46 are: Edward J. M. Black, 10-46, President; Donald R. Faggin, 10-46, Vice-President, and George A. Law, 10-46, Secretary-Treasurer.

"The Junior Committee from the Class of 2-46 is: D. R. Harshman, 10-46, President; and D. R. Harshman, 10-46, Secretary-Treasurer, and David S. Herwitz, 10-46, Business Manager. Both are running unopposed. Both are running unopposed. Both are running unopposed.

The elections proved very quiet on the whole, with only the Class of 2-46 showing a great deal of interest in the proceeding. Sixty per cent of 2-46 voted, as compared to 33% of the Class of 2-46. The Class of 2-46 voted 53% of 2-46, and only 25% of the Class of 6-46 and 10-46.
