Homecoming at Eastern Illinois State Teachers College got more than its share of publicity when Abbie Pane designed the hat showing highlights of the event. Represented are the homecoming queen, her attendants, the drum majorettes, a bar for Normal University and folk-singer Burl Ives with his "blue-tail fly.

Holder of four degrees from Harvard and Chicago and youngest man of Colgate University’s 106-man faculty, Dr. A. Peter Ruderman, 22, is shown here teaching an economics class. Of his 118 students about half are older than Dr. Ruderman.

Irish Told, “Go to Blazes!”

Anywhere else in the United States “go to blazes” could be justifiably construed as a left-handed remark, but at Notre Dame it means the local fire house. For here is one of the few college-owned and operated fire fighting organizations in the country.

It got its start in 1939 when the state fire marshal pointed out to Brother Bemcosystem the many fire hazards that were otherwise invisible to the average person. He found himself a deputy marshal in charge of fire prevention and fighting.

The brothers who man the fire station are on call 24 hours a day whether working in other departments on campus, eating or sleeping. At left one of the brothers comes down the pole in best professional style.
