Public Relations: New Organization

Three important constituencies on campus were affected by an April vote. First, the Public Relations Committee, which advises the administration on matters of news value, appointed a new member to represent the student body. Second, the Institute Committee revised its status to include student representatives. Finally, the Committee on Professional Societies voted to continue its efforts to integrate the various student organizations as matters of news value deal- ing with the status of the campus, is an en- cycle of the Century, will be read by many. His work, which reflects on the history of American culture, is known for its thorough research and comprehensive approach. The book has been well-received by critics and scholars alike, and is highly recommended for anyone interested in American history.
