on government expenditures would make me favor an immediate across-the-board increase in the "single" category and married—no children groups— namely, to discourage the "gray-trainers."

Question 3.—Do you think single men and women should receive more than $65 a month? Answer: Yes, 64%; No, 36.

Question 4.—Do you think married men without children should receive more than $90 a month? Answer: Yes, 63%; No, 44.

Although a majority of those submitting questionnaires favored this proposal, the comments which were most often made in this connection were that the student should either remain single until he graduated or that it is more to his advantage if his wife should work. on those occasions when the subsistence should not greatly exceed that of a single man.

Question 5.—Do you think married men with children should receive more than $84 a month? Answer: Yes, 65%; No, 34.

A professor of economics remarked: "As an older man, affected chiefly by the taxes which these expenses impose, I find that I would rather spend my income on my own art. On more general grounds, however, I think that any further increases of government expenditures would be unwelcome at this time."

Wealth Over Age!

We may tend to the idea that the older one is, the more he has, but, quite often, the opposite is true. While the younger man may have less, he more often than not has better opportunity. Why? Because he has an eye to the future. And, what do we mean by the future? The future is now. We may never see another World War. We may not live that long. Therefore, the future, as a whole, is now. And, the future is now, you can start living now. So, live now. We have just the thing you need to keep you happy and contented—beauty, agelessness, and happiness! The future is now! We are the people who are doing something about the future now.

VA Polls School On Government Aid

Almost 1000 questionnaires were submitted by student and faculty members in the recent poll conducted by the Veterans' Association. Here are the results:

Question 1.—Do you favor a plan for extending the educational benefits of the GI Bill of Rights to all men and women on a basis of scholastic proficiency? Answer: Yes, 53%; No, 47.

The support for this proposal was surprising in view of the fact that it has not been very widely discussed. It is probable that support for such a plan would be much weaker among the general population than it is among teachers and students; so it should not be considered that the government is going to embark on an educational program of this type in the near future.

Question 2.—Do you think that the government should pay all of the subsistence costs of veterans? Answer: Yes, 35%; No, 65.

Question 3.—Do you think that the government should pay all of the subsistence costs of veterans with children? Answer: Yes, 22%; No, 78.

Question 4.—Do you think that the government should pay all of the subsistence costs of veterans without children? Answer: Yes, 32%; No, 68.

Question 5.—Do you think that the government should pay all of the subsistence costs of married veterans? Answer: Yes, 31%; No, 69.

Answer: Yes, 56%; No, 44.

Although a majority of those submitting questionnaires favored this proposal, the comments which were most often made in this connection were that the student should either remain single until he graduated or that he is more to his advantage if his wife should work. In those cases when the subsistence should not greatly exceed that of a single man.

Question 6.—Do you think married men without children should receive more than $90 a month? Answer: Yes, 63%; No, 34.

A professor of economics remarked: "As an older man, affected chiefly by the taxes which these expenses impose, I find that I would rather spend my income on my own art. On more general grounds, however, I think that any further increases of government expenditures would be unwelcome at this time."

Wealth Over Age!

We may tend to the idea that the older one is, the more he has, but, quite often, the opposite is true. While the younger man may have less, he more often than not has better opportunity. Why? Because he has an eye to the future. And, what do we mean by the future? The future is now. We may never see another World War. We may not live that long. Therefore, the future, as a whole, is now. And, the future is now, you can start living now. So, live now. We have just the thing you need to keep you happy and contented—beauty, agelessness, and happiness! The future is now! We are the people who are doing something about the future now.