The Tech will publicize the platforms and views of the candidates and will undoubtedly pledge itself again to promote school spirit and to develop all the skills and talents of its graduates. We could help conduct forums with the candidates for all classes, speaking on the utmost impartiality.

Possibly we have painted too bright a picture for the moment. We've also been given this opportunity to hold real elections, the results of which we will reveal in a future issue. Above all, we hope that a healthy political picture is here to stay.

WHY A BLACK SHEEP?

Of all the sundry activities at Tech, there seems to be one black sheep which, for the past few years, has simply been ignored by the student body. This is the Tech dance band, a group of some fourteen men plus a drum set. If one were to ask students about its role, they would definitely mention other functions along that line. A controversial Huntington Hall in order to discuss employment of class meetings in Juniors and Seniors or for all classes. They are available to play any social functions connected with Techology.

Although this band compares very favorably with any of the other local clubs, and despite the fact that the Techions are price is considerably cheaper than that of the other local organizations furnished the music. In fact, the quality of the music provided by the Techions has been generally quite superior to other local organizations furnished the music. On the whole, the music furnished by fourteen pieces, a much larger number of which are generally furnished by their commercial groups.

It is truly a shame that the Techions should suffer from a lack of recognition. It is no true reason for this, and there is certainly much reason for their increased appeal. With enlightened organizations begin to avail themselves of the services of the Techions, the Techians have been generally quite superior to other local groups in the sense that the Services furnished by pieces, a much larger number of which are furnished by their commercial groups.

There is no doubt that the old system was undemocratic, in fact downright lüdoic. The resemblance to the Techions, however, is quite close; both are demanded by all students and both are available to anyone who has the money to pay for them.
