Koerner Elected President of Liberal Arts Society

The Society of Liberal Arts last week announced the elections of four new members of the executive committee. Michael M. Koerner was elected President, Herbert D. Bennington, Vice-President, and Albert M. Amon and Watt W. Webb, Treasurer. These four were elected by the preferential voting system on the votes of every member of the society, a total of thirty-six. Secretary-Treasurer Karl Goldberg was unanimously elected to office at a previous business meeting in order to officiate the election.

Koerner and Bennington were the original founders of the society. Goldberg aides in the creation of the original plan, and since the organization of the society Amon and Webb have been the two most active members.

TUESDAY, APRIL 29, at 6:15 p.m., over WMIT.

The proposed National Student Organization, for it will not become a reality until the adoption of a constitution by the September conference, is not to have "local chapters" at its member schools. Instead, every college student will be a member of NSO. Actual campus work will be carried out by committees appointed by the student government in its capacity of representing the student body.

In order to finance the journeys of the Technology delegate to Wisconsin, the NSO committee is sponsoring a series of movies to be shown on campus. Last month "Open City" was shown here.

A. M. A. Announces Meeting Tuesday

At 7:30 Tuesday, April 29, in the West Dining Room of the Graduate House the American Medical Association will sponsor a program of vital interest to all M.I.T. men. The purpose of the meeting is to acquaint Technology men with the attractiveness of having their own businesses. The speaker of the evening will be Eugene F. Hodges, vice President of New Enterprises, Inc.

Koerner and Bennington were the two most active members.
