Elections (Continued from Page 1)

By DAVID GROSSMAN

In calculus class, where we were studying integration, a friend of ours, Fred Gargan, and I declined to let it slip by.

"You know how important it is to be fair-minded," he said in a triumphant voice, "and I don't mean coming out of the back.

"What is your opinion on the current labor legislation pending in Congress?" asked Odell."