PUBLIC RELATIONS

Owing to a conflict between its smoker and the freshman rally, the Public Relations Committee will have another smoker for freshmen and sophomores Wednesday, November 12, at 5 p.m. in Littlefield Lounge.

Survivors

(Continued from Page 3) of 50,000 university students back to coastal regions, where the universities are being re-established, is not yet complete. WSSF aid stations along their routes have been able to supply in many the double handful of rice per day which is all that is required to keep the Chinese student struggling back to his university and the higher education which may some day make a democratic nation of China.

From Shanghai the WSSF staff representative writes, "I’m sitting here in this crude little student center building and wishing there were some way to tell the students of America really see this barren campus—the library and classroom building thrown together, crowded with double-decker bunks, and sanitary arrangements non-existent. The food—rice and one vegetable, meal after meal, and in a great while a smear of meat; no eggs, no milk, no sweets, no fruit. Sometimes I wonder how they can look another cabbage in the face."

India’s Facilities Swamped

From Southeast Asia, where WSSF relief funds will reach for the first time this year, come details of the educational difficulties of new nations recently freed from colonial government. In India in the face of religious conflict, general famine, and lack of educational supplies, university students number 300,000 compared to a pre-war total of 60,000. Students live in improvised huts which have only palm-thatched roof and sides, no floor or sanitary arrangements. One hundred students sleep side by side in such a building, built at the equivalent cost of thirty dollars.
