Hockey Game With Terriers

Friday, November 7, 1947

The announcement was made this week that the first Tech hockey game to be played this year will be against Boston University on the afternoon of December 1 at the Boston Arena. The contest will be one of the highlights of the Tech season and will be preceded by a big rally at the Great Court.

The game with B.U. in Ia.st could be one of the big events of the season even were it not part of the Terriers' schedule this fall.

The game with B.U. in itself is of great interest to Terrier fans. The Tech team of last year, led by the outstanding defensemen in the league; and Jack Adams, the goalie rated right behind B.U.'s Crowley, who was chosen for the All-Star selection, has left because he will again be able to weave will again be used to confuse the man-to-man defense which most colleges use.

Doug Watson, the able ball handler, has not been missed. The same Tech team of last year, led by the upset of the year in beating the top teams in the league; and Jack Adams, the goalie rated right behind B.U.'s Crowley, who was chosen for the All-Star selection, has left because he will again be able to weave will again be used to confuse the man-to-man defense which most colleges use.

Doug Watson, the able ball handler, has not been missed. The same Tech team of last year, led by the upset of the year in beating the top teams in the league; and Jack Adams, the goalie rated right behind B.U.'s Crowley, who was chosen for the All-Star selection, has left because he will again be able to weave will again be used to confuse the man-to-man defense which most colleges use.

Doug Watson, the able ball handler, has not been missed. The same Tech team of last year, led by the upset of the year in beating the top teams in the league; and Jack Adams, the goalie rated right behind B.U.'s Crowley, who was chosen for the All-Star selection, has left because he will again be able to weave will again be used to confuse the man-to-man defense which most colleges use.

Doug Watson, the able ball handler, has not been missed. The same Tech team of last year, led by the upset of the year in beating the top teams in the league; and Jack Adams, the goalie rated right behind B.U.'s Crowley, who was chosen for the All-Star selection, has left because he will again be able to weave will again be used to confuse the man-to-man defense which most colleges use.

Doug Watson, the able ball handler, has not been missed. The same Tech team of last year, led by the upset of the year in beating the top teams in the league; and Jack Adams, the goalie rated right behind B.U.'s Crowley, who was chosen for the All-Star selection, has left because he will again be able to weave will again be used to confuse the man-to-man defense which most colleges use.