The officials' squash was approved by A.A. To have team status.

The Athletic Association this week sanctioned the formation of an officials' squad to cover all intramural sports at Tech. As the initiation of Mr. Geiger and Don Marshall the plan was proposed last week and approved Tuesday night at the regular A.A. meeting.

The Official Squad will be on a par with any team recognized by the A.A. men who show their outstanding devotion of time and energy to the better conduct of intramural competition will be rewarded with standard "T" emblems.

When the program gets into full swing, prospective officials will be required to attend several clinics on rules and their applications and take an examination to determine their capabilities. In this manner qualified and irreplaceable men will be eliminated while the caliber of the officials will rise.

The members of the squad who will represent M.I.T. in the matches will be Bevan Brown, Crawford and Mosseri-Marlio. The idea of judging a beauty contest does not leave Dahl overly enthusiastic. As a matter of fact he doesn't seem to be enthusiastic about anything, probably because of his Yankee environment.

The last time he participated in a beauty contest he found a bottle all broken in the judges room and while his colleagues tended to judicial matters he went over to a corner and addressed himself to the broken. He declares that he is almost entirely incapable of telling a superior pretty girl from any other kind of pretty girl, although he thinks the winner should be photogenic.

Techmen Eligible For Foreign Study

President Harry S. Truman, acting under authorization of the Fulbright Act, recently announced the membership of a committee whose purpose is to make a final selection of persons interested in studying abroad. The program will make available financial assistance for study, research or teaching in higher educational institutions in the 22 participating foreign nations. It is indicated in the program, open to Technology students and faculty, that college senior or graduate will compose the majority of candidates for student awards.
