The First Church of Christ, Scientist

The First Church of Christian Science, Cambridge, in cooperation with the American Christian Science Association, held its regular weekly meeting on the evening of March 5th with the judgment that "M.I.T. should be completely equipped with the world's most-wanted feature."

The meeting was divided into several parts, with the first being a study of the beliefs of the church. The second portion was a discussion of the church's history and its role in the community. The third part of the meeting was a reading of the Bible, and the final part was a prayer for the members of the congregation.

The meeting was well attended, with many members of the congregation participating in the discussion. The meeting ended with a closing prayer and the distribution of the Sunday School materials.
