Cagers Trounced By Connecticut As Madden Plays His Final Game

Unable to cope with the speed and class of the Connecticut invaders, the Engineers were defeated 28-10, last Saturday afternoon at Walker Gym. It was the second straight year that the Engineers had beaten the Purdue Boilermakers. The 10-point margin was the second straight year that the Engineers had handed a victory to the visitors. The Engineers were defeated 9-0 on their own court last season.

The Cagers, who are the first team to defeat the Engineers in the last two seasons, were led by center Tony Mirti, who swept his seven-game winning streak into his last game. Mirti, who is a senior, scored 17 points to lead the Cagers to victory.

The game was a dud from the start, with the Cagers dominating from the opening tip. They scored the first 10 points of the game, and by halftime, they had a 19-9 lead. The Engineers were unable to recover, and the Cagers went on to win easily.

The Cagers next play the Vermont Catamounts on Wednesday, November 27, at 7:30 p.m. at the Spectrum Center in Burlington, Vermont.

Fencers Beat BU 2nd Time, 17-10

Finishing their season with a 5-1 victory, the Engineers defeated the Boston University 17-10. The win was the second straight for the Engineers, who also defeated BU 18-10 earlier this season.

The Engineers were led by Saber-Schlöker (eMIT), who defeated Selib, 5-1, and left the Engineers with a convincing 17-10 win. The Engineers had beaten BU in their previous meeting this season, and left the Beavers with an unimpressive record of 3 and 14.

Swimmers Pound Conn., Mass., End Season With 8-4 Record

After defeating Connecticut's swimmers Friday night at the Alumni Pool by a 26-26 margin, the Tech men's swimming team wrapped up the season with a strong performance against Connecticut. The 8-4 victory was the second straight for the Engineers, who also defeated BU 18-10 earlier this season.
