THANKS...
From many sources—college presidents, band members, alumni and other guests—I have heard much praise of the way in which our students helped to make the Mid- Century Convocation and Inauguration such a memorable experience for everyone.

What Mr. Tooby said at the Inauguration ceremony about M.I.T. students accepting responsibility and carrying out certain Mid-Century Week-end will also be a number of songs sung by members of the Institute, debated both sides of the question, resource. The Federal government should adopt a policy of pre-paying medical insurance.

On the affirmative, the Technology team advocated that general health in lower income groups is worse than groups which can afford good medical care, and that such plans as the Blue Cross have been extended under the provision.

Also on the ballot will be two referendums concerning the Constitution of the Interdepartmental Association. The first referendum deals with the method of amending the Constitution. After the amendment is made, the necessary vote of the Institute will be necessary to adopt the same. The second referendum proposes that the phrase, "Class A activities" be substituted for the phrase the Class A Activities in the Constitution, so that the Constitution may be changed when an activity is changed.

The committee is composed of the following individuals:

These six finalists are the survivors of 32 semifinalists, who in turn were the victors in the trials held by the various student organizations.

TWHITE PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES

New Post To Coordinate Educational Activities
Headed by Dr. Stratton
The appointment of Dr. Julius A. Stratton, Professor of Physics and Director of the Research Laboratories and Laboratories of the Institute, was announced by Dr. Kilian Wednesday night. The academic post is a new one here and Dr. Stratton will assume the duties and the direction of the educational program.

Dr. Stratton's primary concern will be the administration of education activities which do not fall within the jurisdiction of any single school, and the coordination, in concert with the deans, of inter-school educational and research activities.

The provost is a member of the council, and the budget committee will fill in the inter-

Debaters Will Go To Big Tourney
Perkins, Jenness Compete At West Point Nationals
Debaters Edward Perkins, '50, and James Junnen, '50, were rewarded with an opportunity to compete for the intercollegiate debating championship this year, for their winning at the New England Regional Tournament held at Wesleyan University last week-end. Yale, Univ. of Vermont, and Champlain College will be the only other New England colleges represented at the National Debating Tournament final.
