Soprano LeClair To Be NSA Soloist
Bookspan of WBMS Will Speak At Concert

The first in a series of Symphony Programs sponsored by the NSA will be given by the Pops Veterans Symphony Orchestra conducted by Raymond Allen. The guest artists will be Gloria LeClair, lyric soprano, and the guest speaker will be Martin Bookspan, program director of station WBMS in Boston. For its program, the orchestra will play the overture to "Orpheus," Offenbach; "Diligent Iffy," War ner; "Rhapsody for the Americas," of Bayard Stone. The guest artist will be Martin Bookspan, program director of station WBMS in Boston.

This concert will be held at Rhapsody Auditorium, Cam bridge, on Wednesday, Nov. 30, at 8 p.m. Tickets are priced at $.90, $1.20, and $1.80. Girls' schools in the Boston area have agreed to give late permissions for the event without them.

Convocation (Continued From Page 1)

But can it build all these at once, in ample quantities, in reliable form, operated by well trained men of initiative and resourcefulness? The answer to this question depends upon what one believes the Russian economic system can stand without collapse. But, whatever the estimate, there is no doubt that Russia can build, and in building, a formidable military machine.

"We can meet that threat if we are strong; we can in fact meet it without war, for those in the Kremlin recognize strength if they recognize nothing else. But we cannot meet it if we turn this country into a weak-willed victim of totalitarianism, where every man's hand is out for pabulum, and virile creativeness has given place to the pampering fawn of swollen bureaucracy. If we go all the way down the path to dependence and render ourselves a people favorable for hand-outs on an intriguing bureaucracy, Russia can cease its building of war machines. It will conquer the world without war, for those in the Kremlin recognize nothing else. But we cannot meet it if we turn this country into a weak-willed victim of totalitarianism, where every man's hand is out for pabulum, and virile creativeness has given place to the pampering fawn of swollen bureaucracy. If we go all the way down the path to dependence and render ourselves a people favorable for hand-outs on an intriguing bureaucracy, Russia can cease its building of war machines. It will conquer the world without war, for those in the Kremlin recognize strength if they recognize nothing else. But we cannot meet it if we turn this country into a weak-willed victim of totalitarianism, where every man's hand is out for pabulum, and virile creativeness has given place to the pampering fawn of swollen bureaucracy. If we go all the way down the path to dependence and render ourselves a people favorable for hand-outs on an intriguing bureaucracy, Russia can cease its building of war machines. It will conquer the world without war, for those in the Kremlin recognize strength if they recognize nothing else. But we cannot meet it if we turn this country into a weak-willed victim of totalitarianism, where every man's hand is out for pabulum, and virile creativeness has given place to the pampering fawn of swollen bureaucracy. If we go all the way down the path to dependence and render ourselves a people favorable for hand-outs on an intriguing bureaucracy, Russia can cease its building of war machines. It will conquer the world without war, for those in the Kremlin recognize strength if they recognize nothing else. But we cannot meet it if we turn this country into a weak-willed victim of totalitarianism, where every man's hand is out for pabulum, and virile creativeness has given place to the pampering fawn of swollen bureaucracy. If we go all the way down the path to dependence and render ourselves a people favorable for hand-outs on an intriguing bureaucracy, Russia can cease its building of war machines. It will conquer the world without war, for those in the Kremlin recognize strength if they recognize nothing else. But we cannot meet it if we turn this country into a weak-willed victim of totalitarianism, where every man's hand is out for pabulum, and virile creativeness has given place to the pampering fawn of swollen bureaucracy. If we go all the way down the path to dependence and render ourselves a people favorable for hand-outs on an intriguing bureaucracy, Russia can cease its building of war machines. It will conquer the world without war, for those in the Kremlin recognize strength if they recognize nothing else. But we cannot meet it if we turn this country into a weak-willed victim of totalitarianism, where every man's hand is out for pabulum, and virile creativeness has given place to the pampering fawn of swollen bureaucracy. If we go all the way down the path to dependence and render ourselves a people favorable for hand-outs on an intriguing bureaucracy, Russia can cease its building of war machines. It will conquer the world without war, for those in the Kremlin recognize strength if they recognize nothing else. But we cannot meet it if we turn this country into a weak-willed victim of totalitarianism, where every man's hand is out for pabulum, and virile creativeness has given place to the pampering fawn of swollen bureaucracy. If we go all the way down the path to dependence and render ourselves a people favorable for hand-outs on an intriguing bureaucracy, Russia can cease its building of war machines. It will conquer the world without war, for those in the Kremlin recognize strength if they recognize nothing else. But we cannot meet it if we turn this country into a weak-willed victim of totalitarianism, where every man's hand is out for pabulum, and virile creativeness has given place to the pampering fawn of swollen bureaucracy. If we go all the way down the path to dependence and render ourselves a people favorable for hand-outs on an intriguing bureaucracy, Russia can cease its building of war machines. It will conquer the world without war, for those in the Kremlin recognize strength if they recognize nothing else. But we cannot meet it if we turn this country into a weak-willed victim of totalitarianism, where every man's hand is out for pabulum, and virile creativeness has given place to the pampering fawn of swollen bureaucracy. If we go all the way down the path to dependence and render ourselves a people favorable for hand-outs on an intriguing bureaucracy, Russia can cease its building of war machines. It will conquer the world without war, for those in the Kremlin recognize strength if they recognize nothing else. But we cannot meet it if we turn this country into a weak-willed victim of totalitarianism, where every man's hand is out for pabulum, and virile creativeness has given place to the pampering fawn of swollen bureaucracy. If we go all the way down the path to dependence and render ourselves a people favorable for hand-outs on an intriguing bureaucracy, Russia can cease its building of war machines. It will conquer the world without war, for those in the Kremlin recognize strength if they recognize nothing else. But we cannot meet it if we turn this country into a weak-willed victim of totalitarianism, where every man's hand is out for pabulum, and virile creativeness has given place to the pampering fawn of swollen bureaucracy. If we go all the way down the path to dependence and render ourselves a people favorable for hand-outs on an intriguing bureaucracy, Russia can cease its building of war machines. It will conquer the world without war, for those in the Kremlin recognize strength if they recognize nothing else. But we cannot meet it if we turn this country into a weak-willed victim of totalitarianism, where every man's hand is out for pabulum, and virile creativeness has given place to the pampering fawn of swollen bureaucracy. If we go all the way down the path to dependence and render ourselves a people favorable for hand-outs on an intriguing bureaucracy, Russia can cease its building of war machines. It will conquer the world without war, for those in the Kremlin recognize strength if they recognize nothing else. But we cannot meet it if we turn this country into a weak-willed victim of totalitarianism, where every man's hand is out for pabulum, and virile creativeness has given place to the pampering fawn of swollen bureaucracy. If we go all the way down the path to dependence and render ourselves a people favorable for hand-outs on an intriguing bureaucracy, Russia can cease its building of war machines. It will conquer the world without war, for those in the Kremlin recognize strength if they recognize nothing else. But we cannot meet it if we turn this country into a weak-willed victim of totalitarianism, where every man's hand is out for pabulum, and virile creativeness has given place to the pampering fawn of swollen bureaucracy. If we go all the way down the path to dependence and render ourselves a people favorable for hand-outs on an intriguing bureaucracy, Russia can cease its building of war machines. It will conquer the world without war, for those in the Kremlin recognize strength if they recognize nothing else. But we cannot meet it if we turn this country into a weak-willed victim of totalitarianism, where every man's hand is out for pabulum, and virile creativeness has given place to the pampering fawn of swollen bureaucracy. If we go all the way down the path to dependence and render ourselves a people favorable for hand-outs on an intriguing bureaucracy, Russia can cease its building of war machines. It will conquer the world without war, for those in the Kremlin recognize strength if they recognize nothing else. But we cannot meet it if we turn this country into a weak-willed victim of totalitarianism, where every man's hand is out for pabulum, and virile creativeness has given place to the pampering fawn of swollen bureaucracy. If we go all the way down the path to dependence and render ourselves a people favorable for hand-outs on an intriguing bureaucracy, Russia can cease its building of war machines. It will conquer the world without war, for those in the Kremlin recognize strength if they recognize nothing else. But we cannot meet it if we turn this country into a weak-willed victim of totalitarianism, where every man's hand is out for pabulum, and virile creativeness has given place to the pampering fawn of swollen bureaucracy. If we go all the way down the path to dependence and render ourselves a people favorable for hand-outs on an intriguing bureaucracy, Russia can cease its building of war machines. It will conquer the world without war, for those in the Kremlin recognize strength if they recognize nothing else. But we cannot meet it if we turn this country into a weak-willed victim of totalitarianism, where every man's hand is out for pabulum, and virile creativeness has given place to the pampering fawn of swollen bureaucracy. If we go all the way down the path to dependence and render ourselves a people favorable for hand-outs on an intriguing bureaucracy, Russia can cease its building of war machines. It will conquer the world without war, for those in the Kremlin recognize strength if they recognize nothing else. But we cannot meet it if we turn this country into a weak-willed victim of totalitarianism, where every man's hand is out for pabulum, and virile creativeness has given place to the pampering fawn of swollen bureaucracy. If we go all the way down the path to dependence and render ourselves a people favorable for hand-outs on an intriguing bureaucracy, Russia can cease its building of war machines. It will conquer the world without war, for those in the Kremlin recognize strength if they recognize nothing else. But we cannot meet it if we turn this country into a weak-willed victim of totalitarianism, where every man's hand is out for pabulum, and virile creativeness has given place to the pampering fawn of swollen bureaucracy. If we go all the way down the path to dependence and render ourselves a people favorable for hand-outs on an intriguing bureaucracy, Russia can cease its building of war machines. It will conquer the world without war, for those in the Kremlin recognize strength if they recognize nothing else. But we cannot meet it if we turn this country into a weak-willed victim of totalitarianism, where every man's hand is out for pabulum, and virile creativeness has given place to the pampering fawn of swollen bureaucracy. If we go all the way down the path to dependence and render ourselves a people favorable for hand-outs on an intriguing bureaucracy, Russia can cease its building of war machi...