Students Initiate Baker Memorial

Matthews is Elected

Composed of By Members

On October 25, 1950, the Reverend Baker Memorial Committee was formed to establish a memorial for the late Dean Everett Baker. In the days immediately after Dr. Baker's death in late August, a great number of the students expressed a desire to do something to perpetuate the memory of a man who, in addition to his dedication to his profession, taught and inspired students to develop a sense of responsibility and an understanding of the importance of social and educational issues.

At a meeting held on October 5, students who were interested met to discuss the possibility of establishing a memorial for Dr. Baker. The meeting was attended by representatives from several student groups, including the Baker Club, Psychic Research Society, and the Walker Committee.

The group agreed to organize into a committee to be known as the Baker Memorial Committee. The committee was charged with the responsibility of planning and establishing a memorial for Dr. Baker.

Groundbreaking Ceremony

For Dorrance Lab Nov. 15

President Killin has announced the date of the groundbreaking for the new J. Thompson Dorrance Laboratory, which is scheduled to begin on November 15th.

The ceremony will take place at 11:30 a.m. and will be attended by members of the Institute community, as well as representatives from the construction company involved in the project.

Will boys, we never thought it would happen. Here it is, the last resident of the Pyxidan Palace, Builders 22 to the uninitiated, walking out of the old place leaving it to assume the function of a housing project. His name is--Marvin Levan '53.

South Korea Established

Democratic Government

By Professor THOMAS H. D. MANNING

Department of History

South Korea in the late 1940s was a land of chaos and uncertainty. The country was recovering from the devastations of war, and the political landscape was rapidly changing. In the wake of the Korean War, the United States played a significant role in establishing a democratic government in South Korea.

On November 15, 1950, President Truman announced the establishment of a new government in South Korea. The new government was headed by the former chairman of the National Assembly, Syngman Rhee, who had previously served as the president of South Korea.

For the first democratic election in the history of South Korea, almost 80% of eligible voters participated, and over 85% of those cast their ballots on the day of the election. The newly formed provisional government of Korea, under whose auspices both registrations and elections had been carried out, witnessed a significant majority of the electorate voting in favor of the election.

The representatives elected by the free choice of the Korean people convened for the first time as the National Assembly Provisional Commission and were elected as members of the National Assembly Permanent Commission.

ByMen Of Industry

Opportunities and challenges of industry here at Tech-overs, and interesting spaciousness in their work-
groups, will be presented by representatives from the

Placement Program Office located in Building 10.

The Beat (Continued on Page 5)

W.M.C. Threatens Denial of Rights To Rule Violators

In mid-October, the W.M.C. announced that all activities which have not met certain regulatations of the Institute Committee and which do not comply with the requirements of the Institute will be subject to possible termination.

Activities which have not met these requirements, activities that must be suspended or terminated, will be determined by the W.M.C. and may include the suspension of activities, the cancellation of events, or the termination of the organization.

Groundbreaking Ceremony

For Dorrance Lab Nov. 15

President Killin has announced the date of the groundbreaking for the new J. Thompson Dorrance Laboratory, which is scheduled to begin on November 15th. The ceremony will take place at 11:30 a.m. and will be attended by members of the Institute community, as well as representatives from the construction company involved in the project.

Will boys, we never thought it would happen. Here it is, the last resident of the Pyxidan Palace, Builders 22 to the uninitiated, walking out of the old place leaving it to assume the function of a housing project. His name is--Marvin Levan '53.

South Korea Established

Democratic Government

By Professor THOMAS H. D. MANNING

Department of History

South Korea in the late 1940s was a land of chaos and uncertainty. The country was recovering from the devastations of war, and the political landscape was rapidly changing. In the wake of the Korean War, the United States played a significant role in establishing a democratic government in South Korea.

On November 15, 1950, President Truman announced the establishment of a new government in South Korea. The new government was headed by the former chairman of the National Assembly, Syngman Rhee, who had previously served as the president of South Korea.

For the first democratic election in the history of South Korea, almost 80% of eligible voters participated, and over 85% of those cast their ballots on the day of the election. The newly formed provisional government of Korea, under whose auspices both registrations and elections had been carried out, witnessed a significant majority of the electorate voting in favor of the election.

The representatives elected by the free choice of the Korean people convened for the first time as the National Assembly Provisional Commission and were elected as members of the National Assembly Permanent Commission.

ByMen Of Industry

Opportunities and challenges of industry here at Tech-
overs, and interesting spaciousness in their work-
groups, will be presented by representatives from the

Placement Program Office located in Building 10.

The Beat (Continued on Page 5)