FUND DRIVES AT THE INSTITUTE

Asst .......... Arthur F. Eckert, '54
Asst .......... Carroll F. Gallagher, '54

Asst Night Editor: Phillip Sperling, '52

Published every Wednesday and Saturday by the Institute News, Editorial and Business Room 020, Walker Memorial, Cambridge 39, Mass.

In keeping with the Institute's objective of cooperation and sharing, the Institute News will attempt to report all the activities of the students' organizations, subject to space limitations.

Volume XXXI No. 20 \ Saturday, March 25, 1950

OFFICE OF THE TECH

NEWS, FEATURES, AND BUSINESS-ROOM 020, WALKER MEMORIAL, CAMBRIDGE 39, MASS.

Subscription $2.00 per year. $2.50 for one year.

The recent Administration directive prohibiting banners from being displayed on the Institute grounds is just one of the many measures being taken to improve the Institute's image in the community. The decision to ban banners was made after a thorough examination of the Institute's policies and practices. It is believed that this action will help to improve the Institute's public relations and increase student involvement in community affairs.

The system described possesses a number of advantages. It enables the Institute to maintain a good public image and to attract students from a wide range of backgrounds. It also encourages students to participate in community activities and to develop a sense of responsibility for their actions. The Institute News will continue to report on all the activities of the student organizations, subject to space limitations.

Dr. John F. Pershing, the President of the Institute, and other members of the Institute's administration have been contacted for their opinions on the matter.

The Tcch

The system described possesses a number of advantages. It enables the Institute to maintain a good public image and to attract students from a wide range of backgrounds. It also encourages students to participate in community activities and to develop a sense of responsibility for their actions. The Institute News will continue to report on all the activities of the student organizations, subject to space limitations.

Dr. John F. Pershing, the President of the Institute, and other members of the Institute's administration have been contacted for their opinions on the matter.

The system described possesses a number of advantages. It enables the Institute to maintain a good public image and to attract students from a wide range of backgrounds. It also encourages students to participate in community activities and to develop a sense of responsibility for their actions. The Institute News will continue to report on all the activities of the student organizations, subject to space limitations.

Dr. John F. Pershing, the President of the Institute, and other members of the Institute's administration have been contacted for their opinions on the matter.

The system described possesses a number of advantages. It enables the Institute to maintain a good public image and to attract students from a wide range of backgrounds. It also encourages students to participate in community activities and to develop a sense of responsibility for their actions. The Institute News will continue to report on all the activities of the student organizations, subject to space limitations.

Dr. John F. Pershing, the President of the Institute, and other members of the Institute's administration have been contacted for their opinions on the matter.

The system described possesses a number of advantages. It enables the Institute to maintain a good public image and to attract students from a wide range of backgrounds. It also encourages students to participate in community activities and to develop a sense of responsibility for their actions. The Institute News will continue to report on all the activities of the student organizations, subject to space limitations.

Dr. John F. Pershing, the President of the Institute, and other members of the Institute's administration have been contacted for their opinions on the matter.

The system described possesses a number of advantages. It enables the Institute to maintain a good public image and to attract students from a wide range of backgrounds. It also encourages students to participate in community activities and to develop a sense of responsibility for their actions. The Institute News will continue to report on all the activities of the student organizations, subject to space limitations.

Dr. John F. Pershing, the President of the Institute, and other members of the Institute's administration have been contacted for their opinions on the matter.

The system described possesses a number of advantages. It enables the Institute to maintain a good public image and to attract students from a wide range of backgrounds. It also encourages students to participate in community activities and to develop a sense of responsibility for their actions. The Institute News will continue to report on all the activities of the student organizations, subject to space limitations.

Dr. John F. Pershing, the President of the Institute, and other members of the Institute's administration have been contacted for their opinions on the matter.

The system described possesses a number of advantages. It enables the Institute to maintain a good public image and to attract students from a wide range of backgrounds. It also encourages students to participate in community activities and to develop a sense of responsibility for their actions. The Institute News will continue to report on all the activities of the student organizations, subject to space limitations.

Dr. John F. Pershing, the President of the Institute, and other members of the Institute's administration have been contacted for their opinions on the matter.

The system described possesses a number of advantages. It enables the Institute to maintain a good public image and to attract students from a wide range of backgrounds. It also encourages students to participate in community activities and to develop a sense of responsibility for their actions. The Institute News will continue to report on all the activities of the student organizations, subject to space limitations.

Dr. John F. Pershing, the President of the Institute, and other members of the Institute's administration have been contacted for their opinions on the matter.

The system described possesses a number of advantages. It enables the Institute to maintain a good public image and to attract students from a wide range of backgrounds. It also encourages students to participate in community activities and to develop a sense of responsibility for their actions. The Institute News will continue to report on all the activities of the student organizations, subject to space limitations.

Dr. John F. Pershing, the President of the Institute, and other members of the Institute's administration have been contacted for their opinions on the matter.

The system described possesses a number of advantages. It enables the Institute to maintain a good public image and to attract students from a wide range of backgrounds. It also encourages students to participate in community activities and to develop a sense of responsibility for their actions. The Institute News will continue to report on all the activities of the student organizations, subject to space limitations.

Dr. John F. Pershing, the President of the Institute, and other members of the Institute's administration have been contacted for their opinions on the matter.

The system described possesses a number of advantages. It enables the Institute to maintain a good public image and to attract students from a wide range of backgrounds. It also encourages students to participate in community activities and to develop a sense of responsibility for their actions. The Institute News will continue to report on all the activities of the student organizations, subject to space limitations.

Dr. John F. Pershing, the President of the Institute, and other members of the Institute's administration have been contacted for their opinions on the matter.

The system described possesses a number of advantages. It enables the Institute to maintain a good public image and to attract students from a wide range of backgrounds. It also encourages students to participate in community activities and to develop a sense of responsibility for their actions. The Institute News will continue to report on all the activities of the student organizations, subject to space limitations.

Dr. John F. Pershing, the President of the Institute, and other members of the Institute's administration have been contacted for their opinions on the matter.

The system described possesses a number of advantages. It enables the Institute to maintain a good public image and to attract students from a wide range of backgrounds. It also encourages students to participate in community activities and to develop a sense of responsibility for their actions. The Institute News will continue to report on all the activities of the student organizations, subject to space limitations.

Dr. John F. Pershing, the President of the Institute, and other members of the Institute's administration have been contacted for their opinions on the matter.

The system described possesses a number of advantages. It enables the Institute to maintain a good public image and to attract students from a wide range of backgrounds. It also encourages students to participate in community activities and to develop a sense of responsibility for their actions. The Institute News will continue to report on all the activities of the student organizations, subject to space limitations.

Dr. John F. Pershing, the President of the Institute, and other members of the Institute's administration have been contacted for their opinions on the matter.

The system described possesses a number of advantages. It enables the Institute to maintain a good public image and to attract students from a wide range of backgrounds. It also encourages students to participate in community activities and to develop a sense of responsibility for their actions. The Institute News will continue to report on all the activities of the student organizations, subject to space limitations.

Dr. John F. Pershing, the President of the Institute, and other members of the Institute's administration have been contacted for their opinions on the matter.

The system described possesses a number of advantages. It enables the Institute to maintain a good public image and to attract students from a wide range of backgrounds. It also encourages students to participate in community activities and to develop a sense of responsibility for their actions. The Institute News will continue to report on all the activities of the student organizations, subject to space limitations.

Dr. John F. Pershing, the President of the Institute, and other members of the Institute's administration have been contacted for their opinions on the matter.

The system described possesses a number of advantages. It enables the Institute to maintain a good public image and to attract students from a wide range of backgrounds. It also encourages students to participate in community activities and to develop a sense of responsibility for their actions. The Institute News will continue to report on all the activities of the student organizations, subject to space limitations.

Dr. John F. Pershing, the President of the Institute, and other members of the Institute's administration have been contacted for their opinions on the matter.

The system described possesses a number of advantages. It enables the Institute to maintain a good public image and to attract students from a wide range of backgrounds. It also encourages students to participate in community activities and to develop a sense of responsibility for their actions. The Institute News will continue to report on all the activities of the student organizations, subject to space limitations.

Dr. John F. Pershing, the President of the Institute, and other members of the Institute's administration have been contacted for their opinions on the matter.