Sailing Team Loses To Unbeaten U. of Mass.

The sixteenth meeting among the Technology team and the University of Massachusetts squad ended up over the last two seasons of competition was brought to an abrupt end last Saturday afternoon when the Beaver Harriers were upset by an unbeaten Massachusetts squad 31-8 at Amherst. Added to the advantage of running on their home course, the Redmen proved more adaptable to the driving rain and wet grounds through which the race ran than their rivals.

Sophomore Harry Aldrich and Freshman Bert Lanzinger sailed hand-in-hand to tie for first place, with Jim Nicolhorn of the Engineers third. It was the first time in their last two seasons of dual meet competition that New England had not gotten at least a tie for first. Henry Knopp of the Redmen came in fourth, and although the Tech Harriers took first five of the next six places they were unable to make up the deficit.

In the freshman race 'Tupp' of Massachusetts captured first place to lead the Redmen to a clean sweep for the day by a 24-3 margin. The win was the fifth in a row for the U. of M. Freshmen captured newspapers and named the Chicago Maroon and Brooklyn College student newspapers.

This year the Institute again leads the nation in the number of foreign students enrolled, with a large percentage of foreign students than any other college or university in the country. With 486 out of this year's 4,777 students, the foreign students compose 10.4% of the enrollment, as against 9.1% for last year.

Lucky Strike Tied With Harvard In Fowle Cup Tournament

The Engineers Sailors are tied with the Harvard team in the final round for the Leonard M. Fowle Trophy and the New England Inter-collegiate Swimming Championships. Originally scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, the regatta was unable to be started on Saturday because of the high winds which hit up to 30 miles per hour in the park.

The top-ranking New England teams competed in the Fowle regatta which was set up in tournament style. The colleges, each represented by four two-man crews, were selected on the basis of season's record and the depth of skipper material.

In the first round of competition, the four seeded teams, M.I.T., Coast Guard, Harvard, and Tufts, respectively, beat Brown, Trinity, Williams, and Northeastern, with each winning team taking the first two races and placing first in the regatta standings.

In the second round of competition, the four seeded teams, M.I.T., Coast Guard, Harvard, and Tufts, respectively, beat Brown, Trinity, Williams, and Northeastern, with each winning team taking the first two races.

In the consolation round, the three-out-of-five affair, Harvard edged M.I.T. to take the first race, but M.I.T. came back to win the second race.

The racing was called off at this point because of darkness, leaving the last three races and the winner of the Fowle Trophy to be decided on November 12.

495 Students At Tech
