Telephone System

(Continued from Page 1)

that the system serves a population of about 2,780 people and is larger than the systems serving one-half of the towns in Massachusetts.

After a brief ceremony guests inspected the new system, some of the laboratories and research facilities of the Institute and the Vault Library named after Theodore N. Vail, former president of the AT&T, who endowed it through a bequest.

Basic Dates

Dr. Hazen, who was Second Lieutenant in the Air Service Reserve from 1924-29 and Lieutenant Commander in the U. S. Naval Reserve from 1936-49, served during World War I as Chief of Division 7 of the American Society for Engineering Educators.

member of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company, from the Institute were Errol P. Compton, Chairman of the Corporation; Joseph J. Snyder, Vice President and Treasurer; Dr. George R. Harrison, Dean of Science; John E. Burchard, Dean of Humanities and Social Studies; D. L. Rhind, Bursar; Carlton R. Tucker, Executive Officer, Department of Electrical Engineering; and Miss Agnes N. Morris, Chief Operator.

Debate Club Announces Newly Elected Officers

(Continued from Page 1)

(Continued from Page 2)

The Debate Club officers for the coming term are: General Manager, David D. L. Rhind; President, Robert F. Barnes, Jr., '54; Tournament Manager, James S. Hyde, '54; Freshman Chairman, Flavius E. Davis, '55; Debate Manager, Joseph J. Snyder, '54; and Publicity Chairman, Bernard J. Reilly, '55.

New Professorship

(Continued from Page 1)

College Industry

(Continued from Page 1)

New Dean

(Continued from Page 1)

ing engineering educators from various engineering schools in the United States, was organized by the American Society for Engineering Education and the Universal Service Committee, Inc., at the request of the Supreme Commander of the Allied Powers.

Dr. Hazen, who was Second Lieutenant in the Air Service Reserve from 1924-29 and Lieutenant Commander in the U. S. Naval Reserve from 1936-49, served during World War II as Chief of Division 7 of the National Defense Research Committee.

In this post he worked from 1942-45 in the field of ordnance fire control.

The Franklin Institute awarded Dr. Hazen, who was Second Lieutenant in the Air Service Reserve from 1924-29 and Lieutenant Commander in the U. S. Naval Reserve from 1936-49, served during World War II as Chief of Division 7 of the National Defense Research Committee.

In recognition of "out-