(3) Candidates may propose programs to be carried out in the United States or abroad. Programs need not be limited to work in colleges or universities. It is suggested, however, that students completing their undergraduate work in 1952 should plan to spend at least a year in an American institution that offers language training and courses permitting some part of arts and the Near and Middle East. Applications for support or traditional graduate work in premises of graduates degrees will be considered, provided such study contributes to the objectives of the fellowship program.

(4) Each fellowship application must be accompanied by a comprehensive statement of the applicant's proposed plans of work and study, including his purpose, the institutions or group with which he hopes to be associated, his travel requirements, and similar information. To this statement should be attached an estimate of the funds required to undertake his program.

(5) In a limited number of exceptional cases the Foundation will consider continuing the fellowship program for a second year.
