An exhibition of cigar store Indians entitled TRADE SIGNS AND WOODEN INDIANS is on display in the New Gallery of the Hayden Memorial Library through May 31. A free catalogue is available to the public Monday through Friday, 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. The exhibition is presented through the courtesy of the Narragansett Indian tribe and Mr. E. O. Christensen, curator of the Index of American Design. Twenty-two magnificent and diverse examples including warriors, Indian maidens and squaws with papoose, two grave Turks and a Turk are included as well as a post-bellum lady of fashion and a dandy of the period of the Civil War with checked coat and top-hat. All, of the figures are approximately 100 years old or more.

As Vernon D. Taliesin states: "The wooden Indian occupies a particular niche in American art, folklore and history. In one aspect typifying the energy and enterprise of a people, he helped to occupy and develop the major segments of a continent. Historians can reconstruct economic, social and political history from the nature of trade signs and advertising figures and the rarer humor into history caused them to flourish, decline and then to be re-established. "Art and culture critics placed them highly significant and contributions of a period of our culture. Some individuals will view them nostalgically reminders of an earlier and more leisurely-paced way of life but all the figures still serve, as they always have, to amuse, delight and intrigue the beholder."

A number of colored plates made by the Index of American Design in those cigar store Indians complete the present exhibition. These plates have been borrowed through the courtesy of E. O. Christensen, curator of Index of American Design. For all interested in the origin of those cigar store Indians a free catalogue is available upon request in the New Gallery.

Be Happy
In a cigarette, taste makes the difference-- and Luckies taste better!

The difference between "just smoking" and really enjoying your smoke is the taste of a cigarette. You can taste the difference in the smoother, mellower, more enjoyable taste of a Lucky... for two important reasons.

First, L.S./M.F.T.- Lucky Strike means fine tobacco... fine, mild tobacco that tastes better. Second, Luckies are made to taste better... proved better-made of all five principal brands. So reach for a Luckies today...
