Killian Report

Continued from Page 2

In recent years, M.I.T. has increased its undergraduate scholarship awards, and the number of students who have been given these awards has increased by at least $200,000 per year. Undergraduate scholarships, said Dr. Killian, "reflect a national concern for the financial security of our universities.

The inadequacy of undergraduate scholarship funds," Dr. Killian said, "reflects a national concern for the financial security of our universities. Although the growth of the scholarship funds has been more rapid than the top liberal-arts universities, we are still in the organizational stage.

The additional income received from the sales of M.I.T. literature, the increase in contributions, and the increase in earnings of the Institute's land have all helped the Institute to maintain an outstanding quality of education. During 1951-52 the Institute's operating expenses per student have risen more than eighty per cent.

This is another opportunity offered by the new building to seat twelve hundred students and to expand the facilities of the Institute.

Responsibilities of Leaders

Panel 2, "Group Discussion Techniques," was led by Alexander Diner. Discussion centered on the difficulty of keeping to the point, individual roles of persons in a discussion, acquaintances, semantics, types of meetings, and two specific problems: selection of committees and stay elements in a discussion. It was decided that the leader was responsible for keeping the discussion on the subject at hand and for handling the semantics problem. Three types of meetings, parliametary, directed, and semi-directed, were defined. In general, it was decided that the leader of the discussion was responsible. The conference closed with reports from the panels, dinner, and a general meeting in which leaders discussed plans of their activities for the coming year.

Dormcom

Continued from Page 1

nature of the rules, including the reason for their existence, and the necessity for observing them. Small group meetings on each floor of the dormitories are recommended as a device for getting the story across. 3. A yearly review of the situation should be made and the program changed accordingly. 4. Adequate lounge space should be made available in each dorm for receiving and entertaining guests. The committee feels this last recommendation is most important. In line with their suggested program, the Master's lounge in Baker House is now being refurbished by the Institute. Their report also outlines a tentative plan for lounge construction in the other dormitories.

Candidates for the varsity basketball team are requested to report in Walker Gymnasium at 8 p.m. today.

Patronize The Tech Advertisers

COOKIES

Cookies, furs, and small sales will be on sale Wednesday morning, October 22 in Building 10. The sale which is being sponsored by the Westgate Cooperative Nursery School, will begin at 9:00 o'clock and last until all cookies are sold. All bakery products will be homemade by members of the Nursery School. Mother's Club, Missy Mamas, Nursery School Chairman, you will keep this date in mind and stop by for a snack between classes. Come early for best selection.

Leadership

Continued from Page 3

The Tech Advertisers

Schafer rings the bell -
with the full-flavored brew
that's light and dry, too!

The moment you taste this beer, you'll know you're drinking the very best . . . a beer that really rings the bell with you.

You see, today's Schafer combines everything you've ever wanted in a beer. It's a perfectly balanced brew . . . light, but full-bodied. Dry, but not at the expense of character. Satisfying in body, yet not heavy. And in your glass it develops a rich, full head - the traditional hallmark of a great beer.

It is brewed from the very finest of barley malt and hops. And it's important to you who appreciate fine beer, it is brewed with the skill that is the heritage of 210 years of experience. We believe this better-than- ever Schafer is the finest beer America has yet produced.

Your Schafer dealer will be glad to furnish you with a full bottle to try...and we are sure you will enjoy it.

Schafer makes clear . . . make it.