Informality Marks Dr. Killian Talk At Swampscott Parleys

The speech which President Killian delivered before the Leadership Conference at Swampscott last week was not only a treat for the intellectual wants of many less well-known events in the history of student self-government at the Institute, but also gave a covering summary of the quality of that government. It was entitled "The Influence of the College Environment on the Student's Influence of the College Environment on the Student's Education," and was delivered to the group of students who were interested in the subject of student self-government and constructive atmosphere which pervaded the atmosphere of the conference. It ran as follows:

"Men, and members of the conference, I appreciate the opportunity to be able to join you for part of this session, because I feel so strongly that last year's Leadership Conference was important and made such an important contribution to our common life at the Institute, and it is our duty to keep it going.

We can do the better community if we do the less important things.

So let's go back to M.I.T.

Now I haven't got a speech, I prefer to talk. It's a question of making us candidates, hoping that I might throw light on the many questions that I might raise some questions. I was President of the Institute in the two panels this afternoon, and I need the rudiments to the relationship of the corporation and the M.I.T. Corporation and Faculty.

The question of what you can call the organization of the corporation and Faculty is one of the most important questions that we face.

And the achievement that she valued most was the secret recipe for her most famous dish. Yours.

"I remember several years ago the Cornhusker program at a certain time was a great success. When we do the better the community, do we do it? We can do it in the business of the day."

Dr. James B. Killian Jr.

If you put down on an organization chart, but the important thing is that it works, and I think this is one of the things that anyone who wants to keep a mind about organizational matters. We can't formulate it, but we can't draw a pattern which will fit any given situation.

It's interesting.

"One of the most interesting aspects of our Institution at the Institute is the faculty which has the legal authority to govern the Institute—that's perfectly clear in the Charter granted by the State Legislature to M.I.T.—the Corporation has chosen to do this by delegating authority, almost completely, and what the corporation's effort in this effort has had is that the Faculty of the Institute is responsible for the educational program and so long as it is the judgment of the Institute is proper. The Faculty of the Institute has the responsibility for the educational policy making of the Institute. I think that is an extremely significant factor, because it represents real freedom again what flows from a stimulus to the student, otherwise there is no confidence, and in which there are the students.

"It is important to recognize that the community-wide educational system serves our program. We have friends in the early years—""

(Continued on Page 2)

Intercom Receives S.S.I.C. Proposal

A resolution proposing that ways and means of the organization of an annual leadership conference be incorporated in the Institute's annual report was passed in last session's Executive Committee of Institute's regular meeting. Such a conference would be held each year by the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers.

Other items include a motion on the establishment of a joint program in the Graduate School and Governmental Congress to improve student leadership. The student government has proposed a charter to the second Tuesday in the Spring Term. A proposal was also made on the establishment of a Student Government and extra-curricular activities at the Institute set to record permanent.

Dr. Killian, a leading authority on educational policy, will speak at a rally of the M.I.T. Volunteers for Stevenson on October 22, at 7:00 p.m., in room 10-075. The subject of the speech will be "Why I Am Supporting Stevenson." Further information about the speech, the purposes of the Volunteers, may be obtained at the booth in the Student Union.

Ruggers Win 6-3; Forty Yard Sprint Conquers Harvard

Sunday afternoon on Briggs Field, the Ruggers easily disposed of Harvard with a score of 6-3. Bob Weck, the halfback, had another good day. The first half was characterized by a series of Harvard errors, which the Ruggers capitalized on in the second half. The last play of the day was a brilliant run by Bob Weck, who was well blocked, followed by a half back to second half to break a 3-3 tie on the move.

M.I.T. scored in the first half when a set at midfield and Weck led from the back-line. The Ruggers lost a fine run from Harvard's half-yard line, with Bob Weck leading the scoring for the day. The conversion attempt was wide and the second half was much as Harvard was scored. With six minutes to go the game was over.

Ann McNeill, G, playing her first game of the year, had a fine day's performance as he got the two touchdowns of the day. His name was "Moose" Walquist, G, and the Benson was giving her usual juggling game in the forwards.

M.I.T. Staff Players To Present "Antigone"

Rehearsals began recently for "Antigone" which will be given in Hunt- ington Hall on Saturday night, November 20, 21, 22 by the staff play- ers, under the direction of Professor William J. C. Greene. The play is a modern version of the ancient tragedy, presented by the Graduate student actors. The play, which is a modern version of the ancient tragedy, presented by the Graduate student actors, was written by Sophocles and first produced during the Ger- man Occupation of Paris in World War I. "Antigone" is the classic tale of the human spirit and its triumph over the forces of the earth. The play is a modern version of the ancient tragedy, presented by the Graduate student actors. The play, which is a modern version of the ancient tragedy, presented by the Graduate student actors, was written by Sophocles and first produced during the Ger- man Occupation of Paris in World War I. "Antigone" is the classic tale of the human spirit and its triumph over the forces of the earth.

The play is a modern version of the ancient tragedy, presented by the Graduate student actors. The play, which is a modern version of the ancient tragedy, presented by the Graduate student actors, was written by Sophocles and first produced during the Ger- man Occupation of Paris in World War I. "Antigone" is the classic tale of the human spirit and its triumph over the forces of the earth.

The play is a modern version of the ancient tragedy, presented by the Graduate student actors. The play, which is a modern version of the ancient tragedy, presented by the Graduate student actors, was written by Sophocles and first produced during the Ger- man Occupation of Paris in World War I. "Antigone" is the classic tale of the human spirit and its triumph over the forces of the earth.

Eisenhower Wins In Mock Election

According to the recent mock election sponsored by the Young Republi- cans, Eisenhower has won a majority of the votes, and will carry the election while Stevenson fell behind with 255 votes. The ballots were cast last Wednesday, Thursday and Friday in the main lobby of Building 10. The Republican candidate received 397 votes on Wednesday and 397 on Thursday, due to a narrow margin.

Other results tabulated showed Senator Lodge leading the Senatorial race 497-197 and Christian A. Herter leading the Independents 541-491.