$500 Prize For Birth Control Essay

For essays submitted during the next month the Planned Parenthood League of Massachusetts if offering prizes up to $500. All papers must bear the title "Birth Control—the Democratic Responsibility." Essays with views unpalatable to those in the League will receive equal opportunity to win an award if their quality merits one, promises the organization.

The assigned title covers such a broad field that students may wish to limit their papers to some specific area related to their major interest, such as: civil rights, separation of church and state, special economic factors, juvenile delinquency, divorce or marital discord, morality or religious factors, etc. The essays should not exceed 3,000 words.

Prizes up to $500. All papers must be offered. The University of Oxford will offer a course in Literature and Politics of the Elizabethan Age, and the University of Birmingham will offer a course in Shakespearean Drama. Work in these courses will be done through lectures, discussion groups, and field trips.

Anyone interested should consult with Mr. A. Dayley, in room 9-109.

lovingly competition, "is to develop in its students the sense of service, the spirit of economic responsibility and a broad executive ability, comprising the powers of working with people, of communicating ideas, of leading others, and of planning and controlling operations."

"The educational philosophy of the School is based upon our conviction that education for management combined with training in the natural sciences and their applications is an excellent foundation for future leadership in an increasingly complex and technical society."

Potential Leaders Will Be Selected. Fellowship recipients, selected by the Graduate Committee of the School of Industrial Management, will be those applicants who appear to have the greatest potentiality for future leadership in business. This decision, according to Dean Brooks, will be based upon such factors as outstanding scholarship performance, demonstrated initiative and leadership ability, evidence of high moral and ethical standards, favorable personal and social responsibility, and—within certain limits—successful working experience.

Most applicants will presumably be students graduating in June 1953 from college accredited in science or engineering, or recent graduates from such schools with one or two years professional experience.

The Shame of Our Colleges

Are we a nation of meek and mild people with college degrees? Is the best that half of our students can do is to act and dress like college students and learn nothing? If so, we have a problem. The real world is full of hammers and nails and men who can put them together. We need people who can solve problems in business and industry. The best of our college graduates are doing this now. They are not trying to be philosophers. They are trying to help this nation to be strong and independent. They are not trying to be all-knowing. They are trying to be useful and helpful."

"The Shame of Our Colleges is March Esquire on the deadline today.

NOW... Scientific Evidence on Effects of Smoking!

A medical specialist is making regular bi-monthly examinations of a group of people from various walks of life. 45 percent of this group have smoked Chesterfield for an average of over ten years. After eight months, the medical specialist reports that he observed... no adverse effects on the nose, throat and sinuses of the group from smoking Chesterfield.

"I smoked Chesterfield in college—I smoke 'em now. Read this ad and you'll know why... MUCH Milder"

Chesterfield IS BEST FOR ME!"
